TRANS-PACIFIC RECORD IS BROKEN BY NEW LINER

Australian Cricketers Regain Historic "Ashes" Defeat England By Inning and 39 Runs In Deciding Match

England Only Able to Score 251 Runs in Second Innings and Suffers Overwhelming Defeat; Thousands Give Australians Ovation at Finish of Match; Batting of Twenty-one-year-old Don Bradman Features Tests; Breaks Record After Record to Set Up Individual Batting Mark.

Canadian Press
London, Aug. 22.—Australians today won the international cricket championship when they defeated England at the Kennington Oval in the last of a series of five test matches. The series was divided a forenoon. Australia won two, England one, drawn two. Scores in the match which finished today were: Australia 695, England 405 and 251, aggregate 656. Australia won by an innings and 39 runs.

England had been international cricket champions for four years. They regained the "ashes" symbol of the cricket championship at the oval in the last game of the 1926-27 series and held them in the Australian tour 1928-29 tour. Test matches between English and Australians began in Australia in 1877.

His feature of the tests just closed was the batting of Don Bradman, the twenty-year-old colt from New South Wales. He broke record after record in the series, and set up new figures for the largest individual score in international matches, 334. Great work was also done by C. Grimmett, Australia's star bowler, who took the largest number of wickets in any series.

OPERATION OF VICTORIA FAIR GIVEN PRAISE

Stockmen Tender Directors Unusual Tribute at Annual Banquet

"Management Practically Perfection," Expert on Fairs Announced To-day

"The management of the Victoria Exhibition exceeds that of any similar organization I have seen in thirty years, and would score 97½ points of a possible 100, practically perfection," declared G. B. Smith, special representative of the Smithsonian, official publication of the showmen and fairs of the United States, when speaking this afternoon at the annual stockmen's banquet held at the Willows Exhibition.

Mr. Smith stated that he was speaking at the request of the stockmen exhibiting at the Willows, who desired that due credit should be given President W. H. Munroe, Secretary W. H. Mearns and the directors of the Exhibition. He was present at the Fair as a result of the praise he had heard for two years when visiting fairs in the western States, and considered that the compliments were well earned by Victoria as he had carefully scored the Fair according to the usual system. The dinner was tendered the stock exhibitors and attendants by the

Fair Attendance Attains New Mark

President Munroe Thanks Citizens for Loyal Support; Saturday Evening Late Comers to See Full Display; Midway Amusements to Operate Late To-morrow; Band Concert and Annual Meeting To-night.

"The directors of the Victoria Exhibition have asked me to express to the people of Victoria and Vancouver Island our sincere appreciation of the record attendance which has been attained this year," President W. H. Munroe stated this morning to The Times. "Never in the history of the British Columbia Agricultural Association have such numbers viewed the exhibits collected at the Willows. It is conservatively estimated that nearly 125,000 persons have passed the gates during the first four days," Mr. Munroe announced.

Entrances paid yesterday aggregated 5,996 persons, of which 3,320 attended during the evening. The aggregate paid attendance for the four days was 24,215, being over 2,000 persons above the paying patronage for the same period last year. All children are admitted free of charge and all members of the Association and exhibitors have the privilege of free entry to the exhibition.

LATE-COMERS TO SEE ALL
W. H. Mearns, managing secretary this afternoon announced that arrangements have been made for maintenance of the exhibition in full display until 10 o'clock on Saturday evening, to enable late-comers to view everything. The only exception to this rule will be in the cattle and livestock departments, where exhibitors will be permitted to commence removing stock after 6 o'clock to-morrow evening. "We want to set a record for Saturday attendance," Mr. Mearns announced.

500 ARE SLAIN IN CHINA BY ROBBER BANDS

800 Natives of Hanchengchen, Honan Province, Reported Held For Ransom

Shanghai, Aug. 22.—A carnival of looting and killing in Hanchengchen, western Honan province, was reported today in Chinese press dispatches which said brigands had slain 500 persons, looted 300 shops and abducted 800 persons, whom they were holding for ransom.

The dispatches said the brigands numbering more than 2,000 had fallen on the virtually defenceless city two weeks ago and as a result of their fortnight's occupation the town was now practically in ruins. Yesterday, the reports said, the brigands left Hanchengchen, taking with them their captives. The bandits were said to be making their way toward the west and seeking hiding places in the mountains of eastern Honan province. With the bandit army went practically everything of value in the town, it was said. While they were in Hanchengchen, the brigands maintained a reign of terror. Inhabitants of the town and surrounding country were said to be terrified as a result of this invasion.

Body of Andree Found On Island In Arctic

Recovery of Remains of Explorer and One of His Two Companions Clears Mystery of Disappearance of North Pole Balloon in 1897

Oslo, Norway, Aug. 22.—A thirty-three year mystery of the Arctic has been solved by the finding on White Island, Fridtjof Nansen Land, of the body of the Swedish balloonist explorer August Andree by a Norwegian scientific expedition. The body of one of Andree's two companions also was found. Both were fully dressed and well preserved.

Andree took off on a balloon from Bances Island in the Spitzbergen group, in July, 1897, intending to fly to the North Pole.

Neither he nor either of his two companions—K. Frankel and N. Strindberg—was seen or heard of again. Andree is believed to have perished within a very short time after the take-off for the north. His companions doubtless perished with him, but to-day's dispatches, coming from the expedition aboard the steamer Brattvaag, did not say which body had been found with that of Andree.

LIVED IN CAMP
At least two of the victims of the grim north got down safely to earth from the balloon, for the bodies which the expedition is bringing back were found in the remains of a camp which the aeronauts had made on White Island.

For years there have been periodic rumors that the Andree balloon had been found in Siberia or that messages purporting to be from him had been washed ashore on northern coasts.

Salomon August Andree was born in Grenna, Switzerland, October 18, 1864.

BENNETT AND FORBES ARE TO DEBATE TRADE

Canadian-New Zealand Pact to Be Discussed While Premier in Canada

Ottawa, Aug. 22.—The Federal Government is ready to discuss with Premier G. W. Forbes of New Zealand, on his arrival in Canada, the question of a direct trade agreement between the two countries. While Premier R. B. Bennett is now on the prairies, this intimation came from official circles here to-day.

The Prime Minister of New Zealand who yesterday announced Canadian motor vehicles and accessories had been taken off the preference list and placed under the general tariff of his country, is expected to reach the capital about the middle of September on his way to the Imperial Conference in London. As the present trade arrangements between Canada and New Zealand will terminate October 12, trade matters will be under discussion during his stay in Ottawa.

NEW ZEALAND NOTIFIED
Official notification is understood to have been given already by the Dominion to New Zealand that it could not extend the provisions of the Australian trade treaty, extended to New Zealand by order-in-council in 1925, beyond the beginning of October, but it is willing to negotiate a direct trade agreement.

ROBERT ROFF NEW HEAD OF IMMIGRATION

Succeeds Samuel N. Reid Appointed Yesterday as Immigration Agent Joined Service in 1907 and Assisted in Designing Immigration Building

Robert Roff, senior official in the Federal Immigration Service, has been appointed immigration agent and controller of Chinese in succession to Samuel N. Reid, retired.

News of the selection of Mr. Roff as chief of the immigration department in Victoria reached the city yesterday from Ottawa.

Twenty-three years' service in the immigration service of British Columbia, having joined the department here as assistant to Dr. G. L. Milne in February, 1907, Dr. Milne took over the office in 1908, occupying at that time, an old building on Douglas Street.

The design of the new immigration building on Dallas Road was jointly designed by Dr. Milne and Mr. Roff. Ever since he first joined the service Mr. Roff has been actively identified with the Victoria office and he has a host of friends here who are congratulating him on his appointment.

FIRST SHIP IN OFFICE
The liner, Empress of Japan, here to-day on her initial voyage in the Orient service, was the first ship handled by Mr. Roff in his capacity as agent and controller.

During the illness of Mr. Reid, Mr. Roff has been acting agent and controller at the immigration department here. Mr. Reid has been superannuated and will retire permanently from the service.

BROMLEY IS HONORED BY TOKIO PEOPLE

Thousands Attend Tacoma Flight Send-off Meeting For Him and Gatty

Two Adventurers Hope to Hop Off For This Side Next Monday or Tuesday

Canadian Press
Tokyo, Aug. 22.—A huge open-air send-off meeting was held here in honor of Harold L. Bromley and Harold Gatty, aviators, who hope to fly from Tokyo to Tacoma by way of the Aleutian Islands and the British Columbia coast.

The meeting, which was attended by several thousand persons, resounded with cheers for the aviators. It was held in Hibiya Park.

MINISTER SPEAKS
The speakers included M. Katsuni, Minister of Communications, and Edwin L. Neville, United States charge d'affaires.

Bromley's preparations for the flight are nearing completion. He and his navigator plan a test flight to-morrow from Kasumigaoka Field, from which they expect to take off. If that flight is satisfactory, they hope to start the flight Monday or Tuesday.

KING SATURDAY IS TO SEE NEW GRANDCHILD

Duchess of York and Infant in Excellent Condition, Say Physicians

Glasgow, Scotland, Aug. 22.—This was a day of great festivity for the good people of Glasgow and Forfar and of great rejoicing for all Britons, honoring the new daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York, fourth in line of the British royal family, born yesterday evening.

A bedside bulletin issued this forenoon by the attending physicians, Sir Henry Simon, P. Neon Reynolds and David Miles, said the mother and child were "doing fine," which all Scots know as the best possible news.

The King and Queen were planning a visit to-morrow to see their new grandchild. Thus, from the highest in the Empire and the lowest villager, all were "doing fine," which all Scots know as the best possible news.

FOURTH GRANDCHILD
The little Princess is the fourth grandchild of the King and Queen, her sister, Princess Elizabeth, and Princess Mary's two sons having preceded her into the world. She is fourth in succession to the throne. Her uncle, the Prince of Wales, her father and Princess Elizabeth all are in precedence.

It had been hoped the child, who had been expected for days, would be a boy, thus insuring a direct male succession to the throne.

The bulletin issued at Glasgow Castle at 10.30 a.m. to-day said: "Her Royal Highness the Duchess of York has had a restful night and continues to make satisfactory progress. The infant princess is doing fine." (Signed) "Sir Henry Simon, P. Neon Reynolds, David Miles."

BAKERS INVITED TO CO-OPERATE FOR NATIONAL WELFARE

Ottawa, Aug. 22.—That it was not desirable that action under the Combines Investigation Act in connection with the price of bread should be taken at this time, was a statement made by Senator G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor, at today's session of the Employment Service Council of Canada here. He said he trusted the spirit of co-operation the Council was seeking to build up would extend to those concerns and lead to a correction of any unfairness without intervention by the government.

ROYAL RECEPTION
The reception to Victoria of the new ship was a royal one. She rounded Race Rocks about 9 o'clock, looming up a giant figure in the low-lying mist. As soon as she had passed quarantine inspection and taken aboard her pilot and newspapermen she lifted her anchors and steamed towards Victoria, a magnificent picture in the sun which was just breaking through the mist. Hundreds of cars were parked along the Dallas Road and people crowded every vantage point on the breakwater, the rocks, docks and wharves approaching the Rittner pier. As the Empress reached a point off Albert Head a gaily colored airplane came out from the city and circled the ship. She was shortly afterwards joined by another plane and in formation they flew around the great white liner, the passengers aboard crowding the deck rails, thrilled at the unexpected welcome to port.

The pier where the Empress of Japan berthed was black with people and the shed was gay with flags of all nations. After customs and immigration officials (Concluded on Page 17)

EIGHT HUNDRED MINISTERS LICENSED FOR MARRIAGES

List Announced To-day of Those in British Columbia Who May Perform Ceremony Under Recent Amendment to Act; Few Applications Refused.

FLIERS READY FOR FIRST STAGE OF LONG FLIGHT

United Airport, Burbank, Cal., Aug. 22.—George Endres and Alexander Magyar, former Hungarian army fliers, who plan a flight from Flint, Mich., to Budapest, this morning announced at this airport they planned to hop off for Flint this afternoon. They made final tests of their Lockheed monoplane this morning and were rushing preparations for the start.

THE TIMES TO OPEN BLAKEBURN RELIEF FUND TO-MORROW

Subscriptions for the relief fund to alleviate the sufferings caused by the mine explosion at Blakeburn, B.C., last week will be taken to-morrow in the offices of the five leading journals of the province. Subscription lists will be started by The Times and The Colonist of Victoria, and The Star, The Sun and The Province of Vancouver. Fifteen Blakeburn families are destitute through the tragic loss of their bread-winners and many dependents are faced with privation as a result of the explosion in the Coalbrook mine which entombed nearly fifty coal miners last week. Several of the families are large, including a number of small children. A generous response to this fund throughout the province will do much to give these sufferers a new start in life.

Following legislation passed at the last session of the B.C. Legislature amending the Marriage Act to make it necessary for all ministers and clergymen performing marriages in British Columbia to be registered with the Registrar of Births, Deaths and Marriages, the list of ministers licensed to officiate at the wedding ceremony is now completed at the Parliament Buildings. It contains nearly 800 names.

The amendment prompted considerable discussion when it was before the Legislature. It calls for licenses to perform marriage ceremonies to be issued only to ministers of recognized churches who were recommended by their governing bodies and the status of an individual church conducted by a minister who had broken away from the parent body was keenly debated. The case of what were termed "mushroom" churches was discussed at length, with some members voicing strenuous opposition to leaders of small sects being given the right to perform the ceremony.

BOTH MINISTERS INCLUDED
In the discussion the names of Rev. Dr. Glen Davies, of the City Temple, Victoria, and Rev. S. Robertson Orr, of the New Presbyterian Church, Vancouver, were mentioned. Both, it was said, were properly ordained ministers who had broken away from the parent body. The decision in such instances, it was pointed out, would be left to the Registrar of Marriages. The new list contains the names of both the ministers referred to.

KLONDIKE VIGILANTES LAST LYNCH TRIAL ON THE TRAIL OF '98

How the Vigilantes of the Klondike gold stampede of '98 put an end to thieving by the disputed territory between British Columbia and Alaska is set out in the story of the last lynch trial which J. Carmel has written for The Victoria Daily Times and which will be published as a feature of the Saturday Magazine Section to-morrow.

To many Victorians the story will bring back memories of their days of adventure in the north. Other features of the Saturday Magazine Section will include: How William Head, where the ships of the world pass, guards the health of the people of Canada. The true story of a desert traveler's last-minute escape from the galleys. Robert Connell devotes nearly half a page to Mount Baker, Fujiyama of the west, and the volcanoes and fauna of the nearby Cascades. Latin-American steps are going to dominate on the ballroom floors of the country this winter. Gilbert Swan tells about them. Philosophy of salesmanship has lost fortunes and won fame for B. A. Rolfe, the radio dance music star. Something on late summer and fall fashions. The regular weekly illustrated page for the children. A page of week-end cables from across the Atlantic. Books of the day and comment. And the four-page colored comic section.

L. SCATENA DIES
AT SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco, Aug. 22.—Lorenzo Scatena, eighty, Italian immigrant, who helped found the Bank of Italy, one of the largest in the United States, died yesterday at his beautiful new home across the Golden Gate from San Francisco.

His death came while his noted stepson, A. P. Giannini, former president of the bank, was speeding home from Paris. Giannini lost his race with death by eight hours. He left France a week ago aboard the liner Bremen and flew across the United States.

Scatena, who started his career as a farm boy, died after an illness of three months. During the last hours oxygen was administered in the unsuccessful effort to keep him alive until his stepson's arrival.

The financial leader came from Italy when eighteen years old, in 1863. He worked on a farm near here until he established a trucking business in San Francisco. This grew into a commission business that became one of the largest in the west.

In 1905 Giannini started the Bank of Italy and seven months later his stepfather was made president. The bank grew and in 1909 it started the first of its many branches.

To the special duties of supervisor of civic revenues, Mr. Wardhaugh will add those of immediately organizing various departments and carrying out the recommendations set out in the last report of the auditors.

GAS PAYMENT
OFFER REJECTED

Vancouver, Aug. 22.—The civic utility committee of the Vancouver city council yesterday rejected the British Columbia Electric Railway Company's offer of a 75-cent monthly minimum charge for gas if the company is to abolish the 35-cent monthly meter assessment.

The 75-cent minimum would be applicable to consumers of 300 cubic feet of gas and less.

The committee is asking the council to urge a 50-cent minimum charge.

Twenty Reds Are Held at Nanking

Nanking, China, Aug. 22.—Government authorities today announced the arrest of twenty Communist leaders within the walls of the capital, and the frustration of a plot to overthrow the Nationalist Government, which included the dynamiting of various government buildings here.

Authorities said among those arrested was a fashionably dressed foreign girl, whom they quoted as saying she was doing Red espionage work among government officials.

Officials said they had confiscated stores of explosives and Communist literature, large quantities of which had been circulated throughout the capital during the last few days.

The Communists planned to create disturbances within the capital, authorities said, as part of their lawless programme.

KELLOGG FOR WORLD COURT

Geneva, Aug. 22.—The name of Frank B. Kellogg, renowned among friends of world peace, yesterday was presented to the League of Nations by the United States group as candidate for the World Court. The election of the former Secretary of State as a judge by the League Council and Assembly next month is regarded as certain, since he is held in high esteem as one of the authors of the Kellogg-Kellogg Pact, which denounces war as an instrument of national policy.

CRITICIZED BY
YACHT CAPTAIN

New York, Aug. 22.—Captain John Kelly, master of the yacht Sabalo, from which Van Lear Black, Baltimore publisher, disappeared at sea Monday evening, yesterday told officials of the steamboat inspection service that a United States coastguard boat had failed to aid in the search when requested.

Testifying at a brief inquiry into the death of the publisher, Capt. Kelly said the patrol craft had come alongside the Sabalo during the hunt, and its officers had inquired the reason for the searchlights being on. He said he had told them he had lost a man overboard and asked them for help.

"They simply snapped off their light," Capt. Kelly testified, "and I got no reply. Then the boat faded away into the distance."

Capt. Randolph Ridgely, commander of the New York division of the coastguard, expressed surprise at Kelly's statement. He said vessel YCG 215, in charge of Boatswain J. Anderson, twice had gone to the Sabalo for the express purpose of lending assistance, but could not learn from the yacht at what point the accident had happened. Anderson then concluded he was not needed, Capt. Ridgely said.

RETURNS HOME

At the conclusion of the hearing, clearance papers were given to Capt. Kelly, and he prepared to take the Sabalo to its home port at Baltimore as soon as rough seas abated. The yacht was to retrace from Gravesend Bay, the route on which its master fell to his death, south of Scotland Light, off the New Jersey coast.

The search for the body was abandoned Wednesday after the U.S. naval dirigible Los Angeles, a number of planes, coastguard vessels and the Sabalo itself had scanned the ocean in vain for two days. Paul Patterson, publisher of Mr. Black's Baltimore Sun, left for home yesterday after saying: "There is no mystery about the affair. It was purely an accident."

Arrangements Made
For World Flight

Washington, Aug. 22.—The State Department yesterday requested permission of five governments for Roger O. Williams and Ted Lundgren to fly over their territory on what may be a globe-encircling flight.

The messages were sent after Williams and Lundgren had conferred with department officials. The nations are the Irish Free State, England, Holland, Germany and Japan.

The fliers were said to have made private arrangements for flight over Soviet Russia and Siberia since the United States does not maintain diplomatic relations with the Soviet, and does not correspond with the Moscow government.

NEW GRAIN POSSIBILITIES

The Pas, Man., Aug. 22.—Wheat, oats and barley will be successfully grown at Churchill within four or five years, predicts D. A. Brown of the Dominion Government Experimental Farm at Brandon, Man. Just back from a trip to the bay port, Mr. Brown foretold that the climate will be well at Churchill, with proper cultivation and good soil.

Gas on Stomach
Is Dangerous

TELLS HOW TO STOP IT

Gas, Pain, Bloating and a feeling of fullness after eating are almost certain evidence of excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach.

Too much acid irritates the delicate stomach lining, frequently causing chronic gastritis and dangerous ulcers. Food ferments and sours, forming a gas that distends the stomach and often seriously affects the heart.

It is genuine folly to neglect such a condition or to treat with artificial digestive aids that cannot neutralize the stomach acid. A better way is to get from any reliable drug store some Bismarck Magnesia (powder or tablets) and take a little in water after each meal. Bismarck Magnesia will stop the worst gas attack quickly and without embarrassment. Taken right after eating, it prevents formation of gas and acids so there is no sourness, bloating or pain. Pleasant and perfectly harmless to use—Bismarck Magnesia does give wonderful relief in nine out of ten cases. Ask your Doctor or Druggist. Try it to-day.

THE NEW EMPRESS LINER

ANOTHER CHAPTER IN THE STORY
of Canada's progress in trans-Pacific shipping was opened this morning with the arrival of the magnificent new Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Japan, for the time being the largest, fastest and most palatial vessel of the great fleet operating under the flag of this company. When the 40,000-ton Empress of Britain, which was launched on the Clyde last June, has been completed, the Empress of Japan, of course, must surrender her leadership, but until then the stately liner which arrived here to-day will carry the sceptre. Even then, since the Empress of Britain is destined for the Atlantic service, the Empress of Japan will remain the mistress of the great Canadian company's maritime interests on the Pacific until a fresh chapter has been begun with a bigger and faster ship.

As this newspaper pointed out a few days ago, the Empress of Japan is more than four times the tonnage of the vessel of the same name operated by the Canadian Pacific steamship service between British Columbia and the Orient up to twenty-five years ago, and the marked increase in the tonnage and number of the company's trans-Pacific fleet indicates in some measure the extent to which commerce between Canada and the Far East has expanded in that period. But it does not tell the whole story of that growth, because there has also been a noteworthy increase in the number and tonnage of ships on this service operated by other companies.

Trade figures show that the exports and imports between Canada and the Orient have increased twelve-fold in the last quarter of a century and this touches merely the fringe of the possibilities of future growth. In fact, the time will come, perhaps before many years, when the volume of shipping on the Pacific will exceed that of the Atlantic. More than a third of the world's population are grouped upon the shores of this largest of oceans.

The first ships to be operated by the Canadian Pacific Ocean steamship services were the Parthia, Batavia and Abyssinia, small chartered vessels which made the crossing from Victoria to Yokohama in fourteen or fifteen days. They were succeeded by the white liners Empress of India, Empress of China and Empress of Japan. It is interesting to recall that when these Empress ships were built there was doubt in some quarters that they could enter Vancouver Harbor, and there was some discussion of the advisability of docking them in English Bay. They did not, for a long time, dock at Victoria, but proceeded direct to Vancouver from William Head Quarantine Station. The combined tonnage of the three was very much less than that of the new Empress of Japan.

British Columbia acclaims the new flagship of the C.P.R.'s Pacific fleet as an important factor in Canada's growing prestige and power among trading nations of the world, and with the rest of the Dominion pays tribute to the vision and enterprise of the great Canadian transportation organization whose ensign this fine vessel proudly flies.

THE NEW LIQUOR BOARD

THE PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT HAS replaced a liquor control commission of one with a salary of $12,000 a year, who was responsible to the Legislature, with a commission of three, whose combined salaries are $30,000 a year, and who are responsible to the government. Thus it is going to cost $18,000 a year more to administer the liquor business of the province as an integral part of the government service than it did when this branch of it was operated as a distinct service of its own. In other words, we are paying much more for a board, with less responsibility, than we have been paying up to this time.

The appointment of Mr. Davidson at a salary of $12,000 a year, to replace a three-man board which cost the taxpayers $17,500 a year, was generally approved by the public. This was no reflection on the old commission; but it was considered in the public interest to change the system of administration after it had had a fair trial. With the appointment of a one-man board, at a salary commensurate with the nature of the business over which he was to preside and the responsibility he had to assume, there was a change in the Government Liquor Act which made the commissioner responsible to the Legislature and not to the government.

The services of Mr. Davidson now have been dispensed with. The public has not been told why. Not a hint of inefficiency has been dropped. There have been no liquor scandals during the whole of his regime. The natural assumption, therefore, is that he has discharged his duties faithfully and satisfactorily.

The chairman of the new board is to be paid $15,000 a year, and his two colleagues $7,500 a year each. The machinery in operation, after nine years, is running smoothly. The staff in all parts of the country is, or should be, thoroughly familiar with its duties. This new commission of three will be relieved of much of the responsibility which rested upon the shoulders of Mr. Davidson. Amendments to the Government Liquor Act, passed at the last session, transferred the board back from control by the Legislature to control by the government. Mr. Pooley now will be the real controller, under the law, both in theory and fact.

GANDHI TO THE VICEROY

IT MAY BE SOME DAYS BEFORE THE text of the communication which the Viceroy of India has just received from Mahatma Gandhi is given to the public officially. But reports in circulation during the last forty-eight hours intimate that the Nationalist leader has made a definite proposal of terms upon which he would be prepared to end the campaign of civil disobedience which has been in progress for many weeks. One suggestion is that if the Mahatma is assured by the Viceroy and the British government that the forthcoming round-table conference to be held in London will conduct its deliberations with Dominion status for India as its objective, he will do his part toward restoring peace. In usually well-informed quarters this interpretation seems to be the prevailing view of the new development.

Successive British governments, of course, have declared that eventually India would become a self-governing Dominion and would be welcomed into the Britannic Commonwealth of Nations as a partner on equal terms with the rest of the nations composing the empire. Gandhi and his followers accepted these statements for a time in the hope that something of a more definite character would be laid down. The pace proved to be too slow for him, and the extremists of his party got out of hand. Demands for complete independence of the British connection followed. The existing uncomfortable and troublesome condition is the sequel to the inevitable refusal on the part of Great Britain to consider these demands, or to take any steps directed toward changing India's constitutional status until after thorough consideration of the report of the Simon Commission. The round-table conference to be held in October is to provide an opportunity for a full and frank discussion of that report, and if the Indian delegation is a really representative one it would require the presence of Gandhi, or someone authorized to speak for him, to make it so—much good should come out of the deliberations. The nationalist and swaraj elements can assist India by participating. They will do incalculable harm to the cause of reform if they refuse.

It may be observed in this connection, however, that if the Indian delegates go to the conference merely to oppose the eminently practicable proposals of the Simon report, very little progress will be possible. But, as The Manchester Guardian quite reasonably puts it, "if they can bring to London a definite, coherent and practicable scheme capable of commanding the requisite degree of support, and can show us how the difficulties in the way of Indian self-government may be overcome more quickly than by the Simon proposals, then they will be very welcome." As the result of honest British-Indian co-operation this influential daily sees the prospect of something "greater than either Dominion status or independence—a self-governing federation unparalleled in the world's history, free and strong to shape its own destinies."

One thing must be clear to Gandhi and his followers by this time, and it is that neither the present British government nor any that sooner or later may replace it will be intimidated by violence. By co-operation, however, the Nationalists have a great deal to gain; an opportunity really to serve their country and add to its influence in the world.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

STOCK EXCHANGE FRAUDS

The New York Sun

Prevention of the fraudulent stock evil is less costly than the cure. Bucket shop operators are hard to catch with the goods; many dealers preying upon the gullible have just within the law most of the time and are exposed only by some bolder transaction that carries them beyond the pale. Newspaper publicity, for each important case and general public warnings have saved millions for investors.

IMPROVING RURAL HOTELS

The Montreal Star

The Deputy Minister of Roads is authority for the statement that the rural hotels of this province have been greatly improved so far as making rooms more comfortable and improving the quality and serving of meals. It is necessary to continue the good work. In the past many tourists when visiting our province have voiced their discontent with country hotel and boarding house accommodation. Visitors will not be inclined to revisit hotels and boarding places which are badly managed. In many rural districts the fare supplied in hotels has been wretched in quality and poor in service. Injury has been done by dissatisfied visitors voicing their grievances upon returning to their homes. Now that many millions are being expended in the construction and repair of roads, and new sections of the country are constantly being opened up, it is in the interests of those operating hotels to take steps so that adequate and satisfactory facilities are provided for their guests. Personal recommendation is the best of all publicity, and steps should be taken to see that visitors leave this province in such a pleased state of mind that their commendations will be heralded far and wide.

A THOUGHT

Keep the Sabbath Day to sanctify it, as the Lord thy God hath commanded thee.—Deuteronomy v 12.
On Sunday heaven's gates stand open.—George Herbert.

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

From The Victoria Daily Times of August 22, 1905

Fred Beuch, the slayer of J. Bebeau, has followed his victim into another world. He killed himself near the very spot of his crime at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Portsmouth, Aug. 21.—The result of President Roosevelt's efforts to save the Russo-Japanese peace conference from failure remains in suspense.

Again have the attempts of Alderman Hanna to precipitate a vote on the historic "secret agreement" been baffled. The unfortunate infant seems doomed to a cruel stragulation.

Some days ago the gratifying announcement was made through these columns that L. S. V. York, Victoria's crack cricketer, had been appointed to a position on the All-Canadian team, which will meet a representative American eleven at Toronto on August 28, 29 and 30. This is the first time a British Columbia player has been so honored.

The season will open at the Victoria Theatre on Tuesday next with a performance of "The Pit," a dramatization of the late Frank Norris's famous story. Wilton Lackaye will be the star, which is a guarantee of the character of the production.

London, Aug. 21.—Lord Curzon's resignation as Viceroy of India has been accepted.

Loose Ends

A Manchester councillor raises a great issue, but fails to get into jail—the Polish government issues a harsh edict—and Mr. Eudbury takes a hint.

By H. B. W.

A MANCHESTER TOWN councillor, although with unfortunate results and humiliation to himself, has lately raised an issue of keen interest to all men. This gentleman believes in allowing people to play cricket and other games on Sunday if they wish to do so. As the local by-laws of Manchester forbid such things on public playgrounds, he determined to offer himself as a sacrifice and a protest against these ordinances. Accordingly, with great solemnity, went and played cricket on Sunday (just how he could play the game alone, I am not quite sure) and a crowd of shocked citizens sent for the police. As he had desired, he was arrested and fined £1, which he refused to pay. Instead, he decided to go to jail, and with a fine sense of publicity, he arranged an elaborate procession to the jail gates. But just as he was about to march into confinement in the interests of the public, a dear old lady went and spoiled the whole valiant experiment. She paid the fine for him. Despite everything he could do, the councillor was not admitted to jail. At this writing no plans are being made to commit him to prison in the hope that eventually the old lady will have no more money to lavish on him.

IT IS UNFORTUNATE that this incident should have been attended by ludicrous circumstances, for it is important to most civilized communities. The time has come to settle this question of Sunday sports and in the affirmative. By sport, of course, I mean amateur athletics, which only are entitled to that name. Business on Sunday, whether it be conducted on a golf course, a baseball diamond or a retail store, is rightly prohibited for one day a week, not only for religious reasons, but to protect working people and give them a chance of rest and recreation. And if Sunday observance is designed as well for recreation and rest as for religious observance, why the opportunities of rest and recreation on the athletic field should be barred is more than anyone has satisfactorily explained.

IT COULD BE SHOWN that all persons barred from Sunday sports spent the entire day in worship or contemplation there would be room for argument, but a man prevented from indulging in an innocent game of cricket or bowls by Sunday regulations will not respect Sunday more, but far less. Whereas if he could be sure of a little sport in the morning he probably would go to church at night and would start the new week refreshed in spirit and body. In most places, of course, the prohibition on Sunday sports is a gross discrimination in favor of the rich who can go beyond the boundaries of such regulations and play golf, which they do in ever-increasing numbers.

WHAT SOME PEOPLE forget in all this argument is that sport in itself is essentially a clean and good thing, and can only become unclean and bad when it is debased for commercial gain. Unless they have enjoyed it themselves, they cannot understand the exaltation and cleansing of the human spirit which comes only with vigorous exercise out of doors. And that, surely, is the ultimate purpose of all religion.

IT WAS WHEN some awe and admiration that I mentioned recently the plan to revive the wine industry of France by increasing the standing army's wine rations (until, perhaps, it will be a standing army no longer), and the other still more enlightened project of restoring the Hungarian army on a milk diet. I find now, however, that these serious but crude and childish meddlings with the laws of economics. The government of Poland is going to do the thing in a big way by ordering all Poles to take at least one bath a month in a magnificent effort to build up a soap industry. This may be a hardship on the population by forcing it, as one English editor crudely observed, to become slippery Poles in the interests of the whole, an experience which, apparently, is regarded as very distressing. But, as this editor also points out, the misery of the Poles will only be half as frequent as that of a German prince who proudly told some visitors that he took a hot bath once a fortnight—"whether I need it or not."

THE POLISH edict, however, has wider possibilities than casual observers seem to realize. The new government of Canada, in its search for economic remedies, might well consider the powerful example of the Polish Poles. An order-in-council compelling Canadians to undergo frequent bathing would do wonders for our own soap industry and, with a little imagination, the government could easily launch a new wave of prosperity on the toothbrush, cold cream, gargaric and kindred industries. In time, by forcing Canadians to bathe frequently, it could absorb our surplus supplies of wheat. So far as I can make out this is the ultimate objective of that school of political economists who want to keep trade entirely within this country.

ALL OF WHICH reminds me that propaganda along these lines can be a very powerful influence for good. Think, as you may recall, I recently recorded the view of George Fudbury that he did not mind plunging in this dusty weather, but did object to the necessity of bathing every few days as a result. Well, to-day Mr. Fudbury paused in the middle of his plunging, came over to my window, and in-

Four Members of Victoria Army and Navy Veterans to Attend Convention

E. Hardisty, George Gardiner, P. J. Simons and Capt. C. F. L. Money, secretary, were named delegates to the Dominion convention of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada at Winnipeg, commencing on September 18, at a meeting of the Victoria unit, held yesterday evening.

The unit received a letter of thanks from one of its members for obtaining upwards of $500 war-service gratuity and naval prize money.

Sunday, September 7, was the date set for the annual memorial service, which will be held at St. Alban's Church.

A grant of $50 was made to the Navy League of Canada, Victoria and Island division. Capt. Money reported ten new members admitted to membership. E. G. Alcock and J. E. Bain were elected to the executive committee.

The matter of arranging the entertainment to celebrate the lifting of the mortgage from the club quarters was left in the hands of the entertainment committee.

A. H. Down, president, occupied the chair during the meeting.

AIR OF GLOOM PERVADES INDIA, SAYS VOYAGER

But Farwell Morris Is Struck By Industry of Oriental Peoples

Globe trotter and adventurer for the last fifteen years, Farwell Morris, of Grandview, Wash., passed through the city this morning on his way home from an extended trip through the Orient. He had a number of curious anecdotes to tell of his travels over all portions of the globe and particularly his impressions of India.

"I was struck at once by the universal gloom of the country," he said, "not once did I ever see a Hindu smile. A haunting spirit of unrest seems to pervade the whole country. I was relieved when my steamer left the dock at Calcutta."

Mr. Morris was fortunate in being able to get a glimpse of the famous Kyber Pass, that ancient portal of north India. Leaving Peshawar he traveled to the pass by auto and reached it early in the morning.

"The cold was terrible," he said, "icy wind whirling through the pass and we were nearly frozen to death before the sun came up bringing a little warmth with it."

"It is the only avenue of travel for the whole of that part of Asia," he went on, "and there is considerable travel there at all times of the year. The camel caravans are allowed to pass through twice a week—on Tuesday and Friday—and they make a most impressive sight swinging down the gloomy chasms of the pass. There are two roads through it—one for automobiles and one for the caravans. In addition the British have a military railway which penetrates Afghanistan."

"Throughout the Orient I was impressed with the tremendous industry of the people. In India, Java, China, the Philippines and Japan, one meets the same unflagging industry. Those people are at least mighty fine workers."

THE SPORTS MIRROR

PNEUMONIA and other illnesses slowed him up when he was just a youngster, but they couldn't stop him. For of the highest ranking players in the United States tried it within two weeks—but they failed. It appears exceedingly doubtful that Big Bill Tilden will be able to do much with him. And that is why Sidney B. Wood Jr. looks like a good bet to win the tennis championship of the United States at Forest Hills during the week of September 6 to 13. He refuses to be stopped.

Only five years ago Wood moved to Pasadena in an effort to improve his health. It was there he began to play tennis. "Pop" Fuller, at that time coach of Helen Wills and other western tennis stars, took a liking to him. He was just thirteen years of age. Two years later Wimbledon fans saw the youngster, in his first British tournament, force the redoubtable Henri Cochet and win several games from him. And to-day at eighteen he is champion of the Seabright and Southampton tournaments and a star to be reckoned with in any class.

It was only natural that Wood should take up tennis as tennis coach in his veins. One uncle, Watson M. Washburn, was a Davis Cup doubles contestant, and another, Julian Myrick, has served as president of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association and chairman of the Wightman Cup committee.

When Wood was fifteen he lost the U.S. junior tennis championship to Junior Conn, the Kansas City star. A year later he avenged that defeat. His rapid development during the last two seasons resulted in his being selected as one of the sixteen players from which the Davis Cup members were chosen.

Most of the publicity during the early rounds of the recent Seabright tournament was heaped upon Ellsworth Vines against eighteen-year-old from Pasadena and winner over Fred Hunter. It was regarded as a major upset when Wood beat Vines. The shock created by this victory had hardly subsided when Wood toppled George Lott in the Southampton event. He followed this with a win over Frank Shields, who had eliminated Bill Tilden. And in the final Wood swept to victory over Wilmer Allison, another Davis Cup star.

"What his game seems to lack more than anything is aggressiveness," Vincent Richards only recently declared. "He has confidence aplenty and always seems carefree and unworried whether his opponent be a Cochet, a Tilden or only a setup."

If you would have a lesson on the importance of pitching, even though the ball be lively, the best town in which to study it is Philadelphia. In quaint old Quakertown, the Phils are leading the National League in batting, and they are last in the pennant race. In the other league the New York Yankees, Cleveland Indians and Washington Senators are hitting above the Philadelphia Athletics, yet the A's have the pennant practically clinched.

The Phils have suffered some putrid pitching. The A's ground staff is about the best in either league. There is the answer. Take away Grove and Barnashaw, or shave their effectiveness by say 20 per cent, and you would see a race in the American League like that of the National. Thirty games mean a lot on this side of the ledger or that.

The Philly Phils have bashed baseballs all over the place, yet they get nowhere. The combined batting average of three men on the team—Klein, O'Doul and Sherlock—is something like .380.

Here is what the increased number of long hits has done: it has reduced the quantity known as a batting average. Three humered hitters used to be slingers. But that's no hitting any more. The good hitters bat around .100 now, and almost anybody who knows how to stand up to the plate can get at least one out of four. Hitting doesn't mean so much these days. The importance of a hard-hitting ball club has been minimized.

The Phils right now have scored about 700 runs. They have averaged nearly seven runs a game. In the days of Doyle, Cobb and Wagner, when pitchers were tougher than they seem to be at present, seven runs would have won almost any ball game. Yet the Phils have lost almost twice as many games as they have won.

There's another reason. Everybody is hitting long drives. In the National League, out of 100 players who have been hitting .215 or better, only 18 have failed to hit home runs. In the American League, out of about the same number with a similar average, only 25 have failed to smack one for the circuit.

YANKEE AND ENTERPRISE ARE LEADING

Have Two Straight Races to Credit in Trials For America's Cup Defenders

Two Leading Yachts Break All Records For Race Over Thirty-mile Course

Newport, R.I., Aug. 22.—The third day's official racing trials of the four America's Cup candidates off this port, which had been scheduled for a start at 11.40 o'clock this morning, were put off for several hours because of rough weather kicked up by a stiff northeasterly wind. Commodore Vincent Astor of the New York Yacht Club, made the decision.

Yankee and Enterprise to-day had two straight races to their credit. The standing to date places the House of Vanderbilt, as represented by Enterprise, ahead of the Morgan, represented by Westamoe. Boston's candidate, Yankee, leading whirlwind, is the Hammond-Thorne candidate.

Enterprise, skippered by Harold G. Vanderbilt, has whipped Westamoe, sailed by George Nichols, son-in-law of J. P. Morgan, in light air and in heavy air, in two days.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Display, W. J. Salmon's crack seven-year-old, who has won $256,000 in purses during his career, has been definitely retired. Trainer Jack Pryce yesterday received orders from Salmon to make no further effort to train the thoroughbred, following recent performances. As a three-year-old, Display won the Freshman, and two years ago scored a triumph in the Hawthorne Gold Cup.

JUNIOR NET MEET OFF TO GOOD START

Many Three-set Matches in Opening Play of Victoria District Tourney

Finals Will Be Held To-morrow at Willows; Margison Noses Out Parker

Three set matches were the order of the day yesterday in the opening rounds of the first Victoria and district junior tennis championships which will be completed to-morrow at the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club. No less than seven of yesterday's matches went to the extra set and many of the others featured hard fought duces sets.

Cliff Margison, one of the favorites for the boys under 18 title, ran into unexpected opposition when he met George Parker and was forced to bring all his strokes into play before getting home at 6-1, 1-6, 6-3. The players ran true to form in all the other matches.

Marion Fraser and Mollie Sharpe played on even terms for nearly two hours before the former managed to secure the necessary points for the third set. The score was 5-7, 6-2, 8-6. MARGARON MATCH

A. Parfitt and J. Marshall staged a regular old-fashioned marathon, twenty-six games being played in the first set before Parfitt won. The second set was less strenuous and went to Parfitt at 6-3.

Yesterday's results follow:
BOYS UNDER EIGHTEEN
S. H. Ryall defeated A. Gouard, 6-0, 6-1.
Cliff Margison defeated George Parker, 6-1, 1-6, 6-3.
I. Phillips defeated John Clegg, 6-2, 6-0.
Eric Slater defeated Dave Mellor, 6-2, 6-0.

TATERS FIRST
Pevic brought down his second winner of the day when he piloted Tatters, the favorite, home first in the fourth. Tatters, well up on the pace throughout, beat Flatfoot to the wire after a stretch duel. Flatfoot led from the first turn, but could not hold off the winner's closing bid. Carlie, an outsider, finished with a terrific rush to get the show, paying the highest price of the race, $6.90.

Shamrock V At Scene of Races For Famous Cup

Newport, R.I., Aug. 22.—Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's fifth challenger for the America's Cup, reached the scene of the international yachting classic yesterday evening in tow of the doughty Irish knight's private yacht Erin, on which he was aboard. The slim green-hulled challenger glided into Brenton's Cove to a mooring nestled among the four prospective defenders, as whistles shrieked and thousands lined the shore to bid her welcome.

Short Prices Are Paid At Willows As Favorites Win

First and Second Choices Romp Home in All Seven Races; No Horse Pays Double Figures; Bee Somers and Nannie Francis Score Easy Victories; Jockey Pevic Returns to Form, Riding Three Winners and a Second.

After several days of longshots, record prices and such like, the ponies ran true to form at the Willows yesterday with the result that short odds were the order. In all seven races favorites or second choices came through and the bettors found little trouble picking the winners. Not one of the win, place or show mounts paid off in double figures during the entire afternoon.

Jockey Pevic returned to form yesterday, bringing home three winners and a second in five starts. Kelly also had a good day, bringing home two winners. Sport and Schmitts were up on the other two winning mounts.

W. J. Kelly's Bag Boy, with Pevic aboard, galloped home a length in front of Bull Run to win the first. Bag Boy came up from third position when the pace-making Oregon Rose dropped back, and then beat Bull Run in the drive to the wire. Oregon Rose easily took the show by a length from Bag Boy, which was unable to cope with the fast pace.

Bee Somers, odds-on choice for the second, galloped home with daylight showing between her and the field. From the break she shot out in the lead, opened up about four lengths and then coasted to the wire under wraps. Van Loos, after a slow start, was easily second best, with Gay Lorn.

FAVORITE WINS
The third was also a favorite's event with Flying Style, starting at 4 to 7, winning by a length and a half from the second choice, School Hills. Nannie Francis was third by a head. Kelley rode the winner, keeping her nose in front all the time and despite going wide on the last turn, she showed most speed in the drive. Miss Dick, running as an entry with the winner, was well up until the last turn, but went wide with the leader, and finished sixth.

TATERS FIRST
Pevic brought down his second winner of the day when he piloted Tatters, the favorite, home first in the fourth. Tatters, well up on the pace throughout, beat Flatfoot to the wire after a stretch duel. Flatfoot led from the first turn, but could not hold off the winner's closing bid. Carlie, an outsider, finished with a terrific rush to get the show, paying the highest price of the race, $6.90.

EASY WIN
Nannie Francis, second favorite for the fifth, won with plenty of speed in reserve by three lengths. Perigrinus, an outsider, was second, with Oscar de Lion, the first choice, third. After letting Willow Bramble have the lead in the first half, Nannie Francis displayed enough speed to leave her field far behind and galloped home under wraps. Willow Bramble tired badly and finished last.

SETH'S BACON HOME
After his fine performance on Mainland tracks this year, the bettors in stalled Seth's Bacon favorite for the sixth, and he repaid their confidence by winning handsily over the field of four other horses. The winner came from behind to take the decision by two and a half lengths from Frank Gallor, which closed with a fast rush for the place. Master Rock, after setting the early pace, tired and just lasted for the show.

Brookwood, third choice in the seventh race, came home an easy winner in the seventh after going out on top at the end of the first half. Wickawack, the favorite, finished in second place, with Billy Wals third. Wickawack after setting the early pace tired and just managed to hold off the strong finish of Billy Wals.

JACK FRASER DEFEATED IN BANFF EVENT

Vancouver Golfer Loses to Bill Thompson, Toronto, 4 and 3 in Semis

Dave Arnott, Winnipeg, Other Semi-finalist; Fraser Plays in Hard Luck

Banff Springs Hotel, Alta., Aug. 22.—Jack Fraser, Vancouver, was yesterday afternoon eliminated from the Prince of Wales Golf Trophy, when, in the semi-finals, W. J. "Bill" Thompson of Toronto, defeated him 4 and 3, in a game in which birds and pars were frequent, and in which Lady Luck certainly smiled a little more on the eastern than on the western player.

Dave Arnott, Winnipeg, had no trouble in disposing of Lyon, Toronto. He entered the finals by winning yesterday's game 6 and 5. Lyon secured four pars and Arnott eight. The honors will thus either go to Winnipeg or Toronto.

The first hole of the Thompson-Fraser game was won by Fraser with a par four. Thompson, taking five through missing a long putt. On the second Thompson got a par four and Fraser a five. The third was halved in par four, and the fourth halved with a birdie four. Thompson made a brilliant stroke in this when his second lay in the bunker and he played it to within six feet of the pin. Fraser won the seventh with a par four and Thompson missed a six-foot putt to take the fifth. The sixth went to Thompson with a par three. At the seventh, Fraser struck bad luck. He hooked into the rough and unable to find the ball, conceded the hole to Thompson whose second was lying near the green. Thompson took the eighth with a par three to put him two up. At the ninth he laid Fraser a stylin' stroke that the latter, by taking advantage of a slight slope in the green, played around and holed out to take the hole with par four and reduce Thompson's lead to one up. The second shot of both landed on the green, and green and Thompson sank his for a par four but Fraser took three putts. The eleventh was halved in par five. At the twelfth Thompson sank his birdie for a perfect 36. In trying to shoot over his opponent's ball Fraser knocked Thompson's in for a birdie and put him three up. The thirteenth was halved. At the fourteenth, known as the little bow, on account of the water hazard, Thompson's drive landed to the right and on the edge of the river. Fraser's second was also within two yards of the pin and he holed out with a birdie two. Fraser's drive was short of the green, and his second was also within two yards of the pin and he holed out with a birdie two. Fraser's drive was short of the green, and his second was also within two yards of the pin and he holed out with a birdie two. The finals will be played Saturday morning and afternoon.

INDOOR GOLF COURSE READY

Miniature Course Will Be Opened To-morrow in Sprout-Shaw Building

Another miniature golf course will be thrown open for the benefit of Victorians to-morrow afternoon. The lay-out has been constructed in the Sprout-Shaw Building and will be under the management of R. E. Perrin. It is the first indoor miniature course constructed in Victoria.

The new course has been laid out in a splendid manner. The theme was have been finely decorated by Boyd McGill, while the natural flower decorations will be supplied by the Victoria Floral Company.

A very high grade hair felt has been used as a putting green which gives a very true surface. Fine lighting has been installed and the building will be kept at an even temperature for the comfort of the players. Mr. Perrin while in the east was associated with the Astor and Park Central Hotels in New York City.

"Dark Horse" Sets Pace In Western Open Golf Tourney

Chicagoan Uncorks Par Shattering 69; Armour Slips Back

Harry Hampton Surprises by Pacing Field of Stars in First Eighteen Holes of Tournament at Orion, Mich.; Armour Shoots 78 to Land in Tenth Place; Walter Hagen, Attempting Comeback, Finishes With 77; Smith, Farrell, Sarazen and Espinosa Brothers Among Leaders.

Canadian Press

Indian Wood Club, Orion, Mich., Aug. 22.—Tommy Armour, the Black Scot, felt his crown slip from his head to-day as the battle for the western open championship splashed into its second eighteen-hole round over the wind-swept Indian Wood Club course. Caught off form with a shaky 78 in the opening skirmish for the title yesterday, the Detroit professional found himself several strokes behind a rugged field and nine big shots behind a dark horse leader, Harry Hampton of Chicago, who paced it with a par-shattering 69.

It looked very much as if a new champion was in the making, despite the reputation of the Black Scot for comebacks. Three more 18-hole rounds of fighting remain, but the "bunkers" of great stylists ahead and around him made the task appear to be an impossible one.

MANY DARK HORSES

Eight shots ahead of Armour stood Clarence Gamber, Detroit pro, with a 70; Bob Shave of Marion, Ohio, and the veteran Al Watrous of Detroit, made 71; while Bill Melhorn of New York and Denmore Shute of Columbus, Ohio, had 72; Gene Sarazen of New York and Emmet French of Southern Pines, N.C., had 73, and Horton Smith and Johnny Farrell, two more of New York's contributions to the field of favorites, and the two Espinosa brothers from Chicago, Abe and Al, stood four shots in front of him with 74; then there were the usual runs of dark horses, such as Emerick Hoesli of Detroit, with a 72, John Revolta of Portage, Wis., Henry Culet of Stratford, Conn., Oscar Willmet of Aurora, Ind., Dave Ogilvie of Cleveland, Johnny Watson of South Bend, Ind., and Dave Robertson of Detroit, who had 73. Walter Hagen, comeback bent in an effort to win the title for the fifth time, found himself in much the same position as the champion. The "Hag," who shot a great 67 in the qualifying round Wednesday, couldn't get his putter to work yesterday and finished with a 77.

BRITISH POLO TEAM VICTORS

Capt. Pat Roak Scores Six Goals and Stars in 13 to 5 Win Over Picked Side

Roslyn, N.Y., Aug. 22.—The British polo team, here for the challenge series with the United States for the International Cup in September, signalled its competition debut on Long Island turf yesterday by trouncing a picked Argentine-American quartette playing under the name of Greentree by 13 goals to 5, in a match shifted to Talbot field from the Whitney estate in Manhattan.

Because the British were obviously not yet rid of their sea legs and up to form no handicapping allowances were given. Greentree, the invaders, a 23-goal combination, would have been hard pressed to outscore the 26-goal combination, consisting of John Hay (jockey), Whitney at No. 1; Jack Nelson, the Argentine veteran, at No. 2; J. Watson Webb at No. 3 and J. C. (Cockie) Rathborne, the Yale star, at back.

BRITISH FOUND THEIR FORM
After a slow first half, in which the British by a second period spurt gained a 5-3 lead, the invading quartette of George, Balding, Roak and Lacey closed with a rush. The Britons away off form in their hitting and team play at the outset, finally got going in the sixth period. They tallied eight goals in the final three periods on well sustained offensive play.

Capt. C. T. I. (Pat) Roak No. 3, and field leader, scored six goals, and was easily the most effective player on the British side, displaying frequent flashes of the form that made him a sensation in 1929 American tournaments. Lacey, the Anglo-Argentine veteran, making his first American appearance since 1928, was not hitting the ball with his accustomed accuracy or downhearted Nelson starred for the Greentrees.

TILDEN AND ALLISON GO INTO FINALS

Will Meet To-morrow to Decide Holder of Newport Casino Title

Frank Hunter, Injured, Defaults to Tilden; Allison Beats Lott

Newport, R.I., Aug. 22.—Bill Tilden, defending champion in the Newport Casino tennis tournament, to-day advanced into the title round when Frank Hunter of New Rochelle, N.Y., his doubles partner, defaulted in his favor.

Hunter injured his arm yesterday evening during the three-hour battle he and Tilden had to fight with Keith Gledhill and Ellsworth Vines, Californians, to gain a bracket in the semifinals of the doubles play.

The veteran New Rochelle publisher decided to simply make do with Tilden would aggravate his injury and lessen their chances in next week's national doubles play at Brookline.

WILSON ALLISON, Texas member of the American Davis Cup doubles team, became the other finalist by coming from behind to defeat George Lott of Chicago, 2-6, 6-3, 7-5, 6-3. Neither was steady and both failed to keep service unbroken in any of the four sets. Allison, however, was able to chop over an amazing number of placements, and these earned points more than neutralized his otherwise ragged play. Lott started off the first set with an impressive rush, and appeared

Pendulum Stroke May Be Fine But Shute Advises Loosely-gripped Club and Slight Swing in Hitting

Advice with regard to the necessity of putting overpin on your putts with the weight thrown on the left in the address with the weight thrown foot, naturally should be followed by a few words on the actual hitting of the put.

Most authorities believe it necessary to make what is called a pendulum swing—that is, holding the club so that the clubhead does every bit of the work in striking the ball.

I do not agree with that, although there probably are a number of better putters than I who hold to that principle. My disagreement, if it may be called that, is in my belief that they do not use the pendulum stroke as faithfully as they teach it. A lot of them get clear away from the pendulum swing probably without realizing it.

I believe that the club should be gripped practically the same as in the making of an iron shot, the only difference being that for a putt the club should be held a trifle more loosely. And then, in hitting the ball, away into it the least little bit.

Desmond Barrett Equals Amateur Record With a 67

Desmond Barrett, junior champion at the Victoria Golf Club, turned in a fine round over the Oak Bay links yesterday, when he toured the layout in 67, two under par figures. Barrett's card and par for the course follow:

Barrett 53343433-30

New York Giants Trounce Cubs To Gain More Ground

Are Only Two Games Behind League-leading Chicago Club, Following Overwhelming Victory Over Champions Yesterday; Giants Have Won Twenty-two of Last Thirty Games; Brooklyn Wins and Also Gains Ground; Athletics Move Step Nearer American League Title.

The New York Giants, who have been assuming a threatening attitude toward all National League rivals for some time, have served official notice that they intend to win the pennant. That notice was given in a most convincing manner, for the Giants opened the series with the Chicago Cubs, which brings them a chance to take first place by trouncing the 1929 champions and 1930 leaders by a 13 to 6 score to put themselves only two games behind first place.

The victory brought New York's record up to twenty-two victories in the thirty games of the past month, while in the same time the Cubs have won nineteen and lost eleven. Still trailing by two games, the Giants must win all of the remaining three contests of the series to go into first place.

While this club was going on, the third place Brooklyn Robins were gaining on Chicago and losing to New York as rain kept them idle in Cincinnati. The Boston-Pittsburgh game also was postponed.

St. Louis Cardinals proceeded to show up the Cubs by slapping a 16 to 6 defeat on the Phils, who gave Chicago a tough battle recently.

Philadelphia Athletics moved a step nearer the certainty of victory in the American League pennant race by coming from far behind to defeat the Detroit Tigers, 4 to 2.

Washington kept pace with the leader by taking a quick 5 to 2 decision over the St. Louis Browns as Red Sam Jones allowed only six hits in a duel with Collins. But the New York Yankees lost one more of their faith, hopes as the Cleveland Indians pulled a 6 to 3 triumph out of a twelve inning struggle.

Boston Red Sox staged a three-run uprising in the eighth inning of a mound duel between Al Thomas and Rod Lisenbee to defeat Chicago, 4 to 3.

LIFE-SAVING CERTIFICATES

The above photo shows the successful pupils of W. T. Stanyon's 1930 Life-saving Class. Reading from left to right they are: Top row, Dorothy Inglis, Ruth Pangman; bottom row, Sheila Swift, Gladys Inglis, Margaret Becklin and Patricia Swift. W. T. Stanyon, instructor, Mr. Stanyon completed his most successful lifesaving class last Friday morning when his pupils were put through an examination in the Crystal Garden swimming pool, the examiners being F. Ellyson and Mrs. E. W. Hiberson. Mr. Stanyon had a 100 per cent class. All his pupils winning their elementary lifesaving certificates, given by the Royal Lifesaving Society. While the pupils were being put through their examinations they had motion pictures taken showing all that took place during the exams. These pictures will be shown for the benefit of pupils in other schools.

Mrs. Ellyson will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

GRAFTS AS THEY PERTAIN TO CHILDREN

In the building in which my office is located, a very small boy is wont to make his way from office to office holding up a round bouquet of 'inexpensively' awful pink crepe paper roses with the mute plea to buy. It is inevitable that one's heart melts at his smallness, a coin is pressed into his hand and roses waved away.

The first day I experienced an emotion combined of pity for the child and gratitude that it wasn't my own. The next day when the larger sister appeared with the self-same bouquet and the self-same plea, my emotions were slightly rancid. A closer scrutiny of the roses discovered them to be identical with some peddled from door to door in an apartment house thirteen hundred miles away. It would seem that this graft was a nation-wide one, designed to make use of the sure commercial appeal of small children.

I heard recently of two boys who started out to make a tour of the world, without money. Splendid, thought I. They will learn how to earn money in all kinds of ways and just how far that money will go. They will learn the languages and customs of the people of each country in their journeys there. We could see no disadvantages in such a proceeding and much of educational value for the future.

But apparently this was not the plan. Instead these bright attractive lads were bumming their way.

certain of the goodness of human nature. Knowing that travelers are never averse to giving clean boys a ride, they make it their business to stay clean and neat, aware that a lifted hand by the roadside will win them a ride in the direction they want to go.

SUBTLE BEGGING

Once in the car they relate their adventure and count upon the generosity that awakens in every adult's heart toward youth and its aspirations to offer them cash, a bunk for the night and free meals. Their expectations are as sure of fulfillment as those of the small children who offer a dubious ware, certain that it will be refused and the cash for it be forthcoming. Such is generous, unthinking human nature!

But what of the parents? Are they blind to the sort of education their children are receiving? If they are in such dire need that they must send children under five years out on the streets to work for them, at least give the children something besides trash to sell. If the parents of these youths cannot assume the economic burden of their trip they have little right to shift that burden to the shoulders of a kindly stranger who is willing to assume it.

These children are learning only one thing in their tussle with the world, and that is that cash, free rides, and free meals are as easily gained by subtle begging as by offering some value for money received or earning their way by the sweat of their brows. A poor lesson for any child to master.

DAUGHTER FOR DUCHESS OF YORK THURSDAY

Princess Elizabeth was awakened early to-day by Nurse Knight, who informed her of the arrival of a baby sister. She has had many surprises in her young life, but this was the greatest thus far and her delight was unbounded.

Princess "Betty's" big moment came just before noon. The tiny princess, recovering from the surprise of her life, was taken into the Duchess's quarters in the castle and allowed to see her baby sister.

Elizabeth, who has a big red Chinese chow, canary and a pony named Jessie, which the King gave her for a birthday present, put them all definitely out of her mind in favor of this mite which had come to her new playmate.

Elizabeth is past four. There will be a double birthday to celebrate in the royal family hereafter. While the new daughter was being greeted in Glamis Castle, the second son of Princess Mary, the Hon. Gerald David Lascelles, celebrated his sixth birthday.

NELL SHIPMAN RECALLS EARLY GIRLHOOD HERE

With Husband, Carlos de Corveda, Former Victoria Girl Pays Brief Visit

Is Writing Novel of Alaska; to Star in Tropical Films Shortly

"Victoria has never lost its delicious atmosphere that I remember as a child. It is wonderful to come 'home' and to find it unchanged in spite of its modern buildings and its broad streets," said pretty Mrs. Carlos de Corveda, better known to stage and film fans as Nell Shipman, but remembered by many old friends here as Helen Barham, native daughter of Victoria, to Times representative this morning.

HERE EIGHTEEN YEARS AGO Although only ten years old when she left Victoria with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Foster Barham, Mrs. de Corveda came back here eighteen years ago in a new role, as Nell Shipman, star of Rex Beach's play, "The Barrier." Through all her growing success as a stage and screen star, in the latter capacity as leading lady in "Back of God's Country," and other screen plays dealing with the Northwest, and in her more recent role of successful writer of novels, and also as the proud mother of bonny twin children, the former Helen Barham has never lost one whit of her affection for the city of her birth, and she was more eager to recall reminiscences of those early days than to discuss her work and her plans.

"I took my husband on a romantic journey yesterday evening, to the little old red house near Beacon Hill where I was born," she said with a smile. "It seemed palatial to me in those days, when it was in the centre of a big area of vacant land, but to-day it seemed just a little two-storied cottage in the midst of hundreds of other houses, but still having the same old fence. I remember once, when mother and I had been out calling, she in all the paraphernalia of calling, with full,

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Miss Margot Robertson, Rockland Avenue, left on Wednesday afternoon for Seattle where she will stay for ten days, prior to motoring to Vancouver to be the house guest of Miss Dorothy Colledge, Osher Avenue.

Mrs. Victor Tremaine entertained this afternoon at her home at West Point Barracks with several tables of bridge in honor of Mrs. W. S. Arnold, of Winnipeg, who is a guest at the Angela, and of Mrs. Hunter Ogilvie, of Toronto, who is the guest of her sister, Mrs. E. Crow Baker, "Sissinghurst," Gorge Road. At the tea hour additional guests were present.

Miss Ursula Whitehead, B.N., a graduate of St. Joseph's Hospital, has been appointed lady superintendent of the King's Daughters' Hospital at Duncan, to succeed Miss G. E. Jackson, who has resigned and will leave the institution at the end of the month. Miss Whitehead spent last year at McGill University, taking a course in administration and teaching, and since then she has been an instructor at Royal Jubilee Hospital, Victoria. She will take up her new duties about the middle of September.

Miss Justine Gilbert has chosen popular numbers for the programme which she will sing during the tea hour at the Empress Hotel to-morrow afternoon. The groups will be as follows: "From the Land of the Sky-blue Water" (Caden); "I Passed by Your Window" (Brake); and "Hills of Home" (Fox); (a) "Song of Love" (Schubert-Romberg); (b) "A Plan" (John and Rue Carpenter); and (c) "The Eternal Rose" (Justine Gilbert); (a) "Homing" (Teresa del Riego); (b) "Barcarole" (Offenbach); "Fata of Hoffman"; and (c) "Last Rose of Summer" (Plotow).

Flowing gown, and cards, when we got off the car at Beacon Hill, our chickens all came running across the lot to meet us—much to mother's disgust!

PRACTISING CURTSEYS

Mrs. de Corveda also recalled with amusement the visit to Victoria, when she was a girl, of the King and Queen, at that time the Duke and Duchess of York. "My mother was among the women who tied sheets around their voluminous skirts and paraded up and down the bedroom practicing the curtsy and how to back away from the royal presence gracefully. And I remember, too, that we children followed suit, wearing bath towels," she recalled laughingly.

Speaking of the eighteen years that have intervened since her last visit here, Mrs. de Corveda noted that Boston, which she last saw it was in the middle of mud flats. "It makes me feel very antique," she mused until her husband, a distinguished portrait painter of American birth but Spanish ancestry, consoled her with the observation that Boston was the fastest thing that ever came out of Boston!

TO WRITE OF NEW ALASKA

Mrs. de Corveda has just returned with her husband from a trip to Alaska, where one of his forebears, a missionary named Austin, lived for many years at Sitka. Mrs. de Corveda has been collecting material for a new book which is to deal with the new Alaska, the gold-rush and dance hall days era being passed, as far as novels and plays are concerned. She is writing the book to appear in serial form with McCall's Magazine, for whom she has filled several contracts.

Since their marriage five years ago in Spain, Mr. and Mrs. de Corveda have traveled extensively, although their home is in Texas, New Mexico, a well-known artists' colony. Mrs. de Corveda expects before very long to sign a contract to play the leading role in a semi-scientific film in the jungles of New Borneo, somewhat similar to "Chang," "Mimba" and similar educational films, also on under-sea film in the tropics.

In the fall she will appear as the star in a play written by herself and to be produced in Florida.

During her stay in Victoria, which ends this evening when she and her husband will proceed to San Francisco, en route to their home, the former Helen Barham has been renewing old acquaintances, who knew her when she was a small pupil at Mrs. Blacklock's school, in the days when it was the leading girls' school in this city.

Daughter Is Stronger Now

"My daughter Catherine is fifteen years old. She was very irregular, often sick at her stomach and had to stay in bed two or three days at a time. One of your booklets was sent to us by mail so I got her a bottle of Vegetable Compound. Catherine has been taking it regularly and she is gaining in weight and every way. I told the neighbors and every four other girls are taking it with good results."—Mrs. Clarence Jenkinson, Box 14, Thornloe, Ontario.

CANADA WILL RIVAL STATES IN PROSPERITY

Lord Beauchamp Marvels at Resources of Canada; Admires Spirit

Favors Fullest Interchange Between Self-governing Dominions and Britain

LORD BEAUCHAMP, K.G., K.C.M.G.

Kaleidoscopic changes which have taken place in the original are the most remarkable features of Lord Beauchamp's campaign, in the opinion of Lord Beauchamp, K.G., K.C.M.G., when interviewed in his suite on board the liner Niagara prior to departure for Australia.

Lord Beauchamp is leader of the Liberal party in the House of Lords and Chancellor of the University of London.

He was formerly Governor of the State of New South Wales and is returning there for the first time in thirty-one years.

Lord Beauchamp wrote to The Daily Mail and Lord Rothermere wrote to The Daily Express, while Mr. Baldwin made speeches at intervals, giving a different aspect to their policies each time. Thus did Lord Beauchamp epitomize the Beaverbrook policy of free-trade between the component parts of the Empire.

FORCE OF CIRCUMSTANCES

Generally, however, he felt sure that as time went on, public opinion in England, even without a general election, must turn of force of circumstances against more and more against Lord Beaverbrook.

Lord Beauchamp said he was in favor of the fullest interchange between the self-governing Dominions and Great Britain, but he mistrusted bargains founded on cash.

ADAMANT FOR CANADA

Turning to his visit to Canada, Lord Beauchamp said:

"It is my opinion that the day will come when the progress and prosperity of Canada will rival that of her neighbor to the south."

"In leaving Canada the feeling of admiration for its resources," proceeded Lord Beauchamp.

From the moment he had entered Belle Isle Strait until he reached Quebec, he had dreamed of seeing it one night of full moon from Dufferin Terrace and he thought that the lights of Levis and the Isle of Orleans, with those of the port below, formed one of the most enchanting views he had ever seen.

After Quebec, he had been able to see something of the University of Montreal, as well as Hart House in Toronto.

As the chancellor of the University of London, he took a special interest in those buildings and felt sure that there were many points which might usefully be remembered when the construction of the new University of London was commenced on a site at the Star of the British Museum.

FORESIGHT OF PIONEERS

"But if I am impressed by the natural resources of Canada," went on Lord Beauchamp, "I have also been impressed by the foresight and wisdom which the pioneers and modern builders of Canada have shown in developing her resources."

He was impressed by magnificent bridges like the one which spans the St. Lawrence at Quebec, and by the railroads driven across the continent under the great difficulties.

All this pointed a confidence in the future of Canada, which was, he felt sure, not misplaced. He had spent three delightful days at Banff, where he had enjoyed the mountain scenery and the natural advantages of the Banff Springs Hotel, and expressed regret that he had not had more time to spend in that delightful spot.

MORE PURCHASING POWER

Lord Beauchamp deplored the present situation of some of the farmers in Canada, though he did not think it was much worse than that of the farmers in Great Britain.

"The need of the moment is increased purchasing power in the world, and I believe that when conditions in the Far East become normal again prosperity will return to the markets of the world," he said.

"I feel sure that the grain market will soon recover and that agriculture, like the other industries of Canada, will regain, maintain, and increase their prosperity."

In conclusion, Lord Beauchamp said he was leaving Canada with increased feelings of goodwill for a great country where he had received nothing but kindness.

He added that he planned to return home via Victoria in December.

ROTARIANS HEAR VALUE OF B.C.'S NATURAL COLORS

George Southwell Stresses Growth of Color Susceptibility at Luncheon

"We must advertise the beauties of our province by an appeal to the growing color susceptibility of this generation," George Southwell, landscape painter for the Provincial Government, told members of the Victoria Rotary Club at their weekly luncheon at the Empress Hotel yesterday.

Southwell shed new light on the value of British Columbia's scenic wonders by linking them up with color in a singularly refreshing talk.

"What scenery but a collection of natural tints?" Mr. Southwell asked, after stressing the value of the color contained in the different parts of the province. "Color used not to be fashionable, but to-day an increasing number of people are becoming color-conscious and we ought to appeal to this trend."

"B.C. is pre-eminently a land of color," he continued, "we have more variety of shade than any other part of the Pacific slope. California, he said, was predominantly yellow, and it was only occasionally that an artist was able to depict any other hue. B.C. possessed numerous shades of both green and yellow."

"Our sunsets alone are enough to thrill the most material mind," the speaker exclaimed. "Photographs of mountain scenery are often disappointing because they are unable to portray the exquisite color shades which delight the eye. Without color we talk, think and act sombrely. With it at once feel optimistic."

Ex-Mayor Gladwell of Richmond, Surrey, who is visiting the city with his family, addressed the meeting shortly, while Wynne Davies sang two numbers which were much appreciated.

Although a close examination of industrial conditions in Western Canada will show weak spots as a whole, conditions are a good deal better than many reports indicate, John F. Sweeting, Industrial Commissioner of the Canadian Pacific Railway, says in a report which has been forwarded to the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

With the various agricultural products of the west, grain, fruit, vegetables, livestock, sugar beets and tobacco being marketed within the next two months, Mr. Sweeting says, there will be available money for expenditure on merchandise and business that has been curtailed this year would seem to assure at least much greater activity, if not this autumn, then in the season of 1931.

It is perhaps noteworthy, he continues, that many of the prominent distributing companies, as well as manufacturers, are saying that trade for the first half of this year has been on a satisfactory basis, when taken in conjunction with the general situation, with actual earnings coming up to expectations. A good deal of necessary work has been held, especially in construction contracts, but with the improving outlook, business that has been curtailed this year would seem to assure at least much greater activity, if not this autumn, then in the season of 1931.

As the chancellor of the University of London, he took a special interest in those buildings and felt sure that there were many points which might usefully be remembered when the construction of the new University of London was commenced on a site at the Star of the British Museum.

GRAIN PRICES BIG FACTOR IN EMPLOYMENT

Saskatchewan Minister Suggests Ottawa Spend Money on National Park

Manitoba Declared to Be in Better Economic Condition Than Saskatchewan

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Aug. 22.—If the Federal government could find some way of selling grain at a good price it would do a lot to cure unemployment in Saskatchewan, said Hon. A. C. Stewart, Minister of Highways of that province, addressing the Employment Service Council of Canada at its session here yesterday.

Saskatchewan, he said, was suffering this year as last from a large dried-out area. One-sixth of the farmed population had no crop last year of this year. The government had assisted through highway building and now had 10,000 men at work. He suggested the Federal government might aid by improving the National Park of Prince Albert.

POSITION OF MANITOBA

J. H. Evans, Deputy Minister of Agriculture of Manitoba, said unemployment in that province was due to no single factor, but to a variety of interlocking causes. The province was in a better condition than Saskatchewan because it had a good crop. Much depended on whether it could be sold.

NEW BRUNSWICK

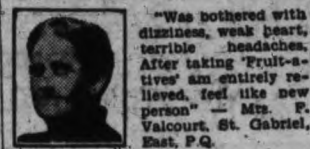

Hon. D. A. Stewart, Minister of Public Works of New Brunswick, said the provincial government was carrying on an extensive road building programme. He suggested the Federal government might assist by improving a number of wharves which were in a bad condition.

"Was bothered with dizziness, weak heart, terrible headaches. After taking 'Fruitatives' am entirely relieved, feel like new person" — Mrs. F. Valcourt, St. Gabriel, Sask., P.C.

Thousands tell miracles of "Fruitatives." Constipation, liver trouble, dizziness, weakness, headaches and over-eat. Bad stomach, biliousness, indigestion, heartburn, gas vanish promptly. Kidney and bladder ills, pain in back go in 24 hours. Nerves and heart quiet, sound sleep at once. Rheumatism, neuralgia decamp quick. Complexion clears.

Ten of nature's greatest remedies combined in handy little tablet. Marvelous discovery of famous Canadian doctor. Speedy results assured. Get "Fruitatives" from druggist to-day. Become new person overnight. (Adv.)

complained of the influx of immigrants from central Europe. For the last two years, he said, sixty-five per cent of the people who had received relief and who were without established homes in the province had come from central Europe and sixty per cent had been in Canada less than five years. Unemployment in Alberta was serious. When he left Edmonton, the unemployment registration was higher than at the peak last winter.

WILL BE EXTRADITED

Madrid, Aug. 22.—France's demand for the extradition of Lauriano Carlos de Villanueva, Venezuelan official of the Paris branch of the New York National City Bank, has been granted by the Spanish Government, according to the newspaper La Voz. Villanueva is wanted by the French authorities for the alleged misappropriation of funds said to amount to about $500,000, entrusted to his care by friends. The National City Bank is not involved in the affair; the transactions having been handled by Villanueva in a personal capacity.

TO MOTHERS

WHEN the children begin to tire of the usual glass of milk, the usual egg, it's a sure sign they need variety. Brighten up the nursery supper by serving a bowl of Kellogg's Corn Flakes with milk or cream and honey or fruit. They'll take plenty of milk and like it. They'll sleep better—feel better. For Kellogg's are extra easy to digest. A healthful bed-time treat for children.

Kellogg's CORN FLAKES

LEADING dietitians stress the importance of variety in children's menus. They praise the practice of serving a crisp, ready-to-eat cereal at the evening meal.

What better cereal than Kellogg's Corn Flakes? The world's most popular! Children love these flakes of toasted corn with the flavor that can't be copied.

Delicious for breakfast, lunch and supper. Always oven-fresh in the inner sealed wax-tite wrapper. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

A PERFECT COURTSHIP

Every day is courting day—on and off the tennis court—for these two racket stars, John Van Ryn and Marjorie K. Gladman, who fought a love set with Dan Cupid, are shown here at the Westchester-Biltmore Club in the first picture taken of them since the recent announcement of their engagement.

GIRL PILOTS DEMAND EQUAL RIGHTS WITH MEN

Reminiscent of the fight for women's right to vote is the controversy between officials of the National Air Races, to be held soon at Chicago, and some of the fastest flyers who demand an equal rating with aviators of the sterner sex. The women declared the air meet committee's action in ordering them to fly low-powered planes and providing them with escort planes for the men's race from Los Angeles to Chicago is misdirected chivalry. The aviatrixes point out that many of them are better pilots than some of the men contestants and they want equal rights. Some concessions already have been made. Pictured here are: Ruth R. Nichols, extreme left; Gladys O'Donnell, centre above; Bobbie Trout, extreme right, and Jean La Rene, Elinor Smith and Blanche Wilcox Noyes, left to right, below.

POLICY-HOLDERS IN CANADA GET $87,000,000

Payments Made to Beneficiaries By Life Insurance Companies Are Listed

Toronto, Aug. 22.—Toronto received the greatest benefit of all Canadian cities from life insurance during 1929, according to the annual "Life Payments Number" of the National Underwriter of Chicago. Policyholders and beneficiaries in that city received a total of $11,250,000 as compared with $10,682,000 received in Montreal and its suburbs. The city of Montreal proper received $9,970,000. The largest reported for Canada was

Payments in the whole of Canada, according to this computation, amounted to $87,000,000, while the grand total of life insurance payments made to the United States and Canada was $2,197,482,000, a gain of 7 per cent over the 1928 figure. This includes death benefits, disability claims, matured endowments, dividends and cash payments. HIGHER CHARGES TO BE FACED BY C.P.R. NEXT YEAR

But Better Income Returns
Are Expected By Railway
Starting This Fall

Montreal, Aug. 22.—Gross and net earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway in the first half of 1930 closely reflect the unsatisfactory condition of the grain markets, which has greatly restricted the flow of grain to either the Pacific seaboard, according to a special C.P.R. survey made by The Financial Post.

Operating income for the six months amounted to $83,134,974, or 18.21 per cent less than in the same period of the preceding year. The decline in working expenses was not as proportionately great, so that net earnings fell away from $16,356,931 to $9,406,054. There is no need to minimize the fact that this showing is disappointing. It does not truly reflect business conditions in Canada, however, rather is it a reflection of an abnormal situation in the marketing of the grain crop.

During the last half of the year, it is confidently expected that the interim earnings statements of the Canadian Pacific will make better reading. This conclusion is based upon two reasons. Up to August, 1929, monthly earnings of the company had shown steady increases, but all that month, they started to show the trend which has been characteristic of returns over the past twelve months. For the balance of the year, therefore, both gross and net income did not show up favorably compared with the corresponding months of 1928.

It would appear that the worst of the grain situation is over, and that the crop of 1930 will be marketed along more regular lines. In that event earnings should advance during the fall months, and show substantial gains over similar returns for 1929. Certainly revenues should be better than in recent months. The second half of the year is always the more important to the Canadian Pacific. Everything depends upon the crop and if the grain moves freely, traffic in allied lines will be stimulated.

MUCH TO OVERCOME
Whether or not anticipated gains in revenue this fall will offset declines in earlier months, will not be known until the crop movement is well under way. It is hardly likely, however, that income will be as large as in 1929 as the setback in the first half of the year was usually severe.

During 1929 operating net income totaled $48,144,544—an average figure for the past seven years, and some $2,800,000 below the record season in 1928. Special income, being revenue received from steamships, hotels, investments, etc., was an important item in the income account last year, accounting for $15,232,220, up approximately $2,800,000 over the preceding year.

SPECIAL INCOME IMPORTANT
The financial showing this year will be influenced more than in other years by special income. Last year this item accounted for a little more than one-third of total net earnings. So far steamship and hotel earnings show common with general business. In some slight decrease from last year, income from investments, however, may be higher. It is hardly to be expected that total special income will exceed that of 1929.

In the face of possible smaller earnings, charges against net earnings will be larger in 1930. Last year fixed charges totaled $16,448,000. This figure will likely exceed $18,500,000 for 1930. Charges in 1929 only included a half year's interest on $30,000,000 5 per cent Equipment Trust certificates. A full year's interest charges will have to be paid in 1930 on an issue of $30,000,000 20 year 4½ per cent collateral trust bonds, as against a month's charges in 1929.

or more in 1929. Of that number 16 of the cities had totals of more than $10,000,000. New York led the van with $158,400,000. Chicago coming second with $112,119,000. Philadelphia, with $44,402,001 was third. Brooklyn with $37,360,000 and Detroit with $25,051,791 came fourth and fifth.

A Real "BEAUTY FOOD"

Health is always beautiful. It gives color to the cheeks and sprightly vim to the movements of the body. Health comes from the right kind of food. Shredded Wheat with milk is the Health Food supreme—contains all the vitalizing elements of the whole wheat grain in a digestible form—iron for the blood, calcium for bones and teeth and proteins for building healthy tissue. Delicious with fruits.

upon which the dividend requirements of 10 per cent amount to $33,000,000. During 1929, the company paid out in common dividends $30,700,000, so that the outlay this year will be approximately $2,300,000 greater.

At present the new stock, representing four shares for one of the old, is being traded in on an "if, as and when issued" basis. The old stock will officially go off the board about the beginning of October. The split stock is selling at about 44, at which point it returns the comparatively high yield of over 5.60 per cent, the dividend being the same as on the old stock, namely $2.50 a share, or $10 used this year on capital account, but on the old stock.

THE "SPA" OF CANADA

MOTOR UP FOR LABOUR DAY

"THOSE people who make an art of pleasure-seeking will come to Harrison for Labour Day," remarks Sir Percival. "They'll make up a foursome for golf or tennis, take a dip in the hot springs pool and dine luxuriously. There are scores of bride trails, motor launches on the lake... really, old man, it's just like a European spa."

"One gets quite away from city's clatter... and, if one's feeling out of sorts, hot springs treatments give one marvellous energy. Come for a fortnight at least. 'Pon my word, you'll enjoy every moment.' Rates are from $35 to $55 per week, $6 to $10 per day, including meals and room. Reservations by wire collect. Write for booklet."

Melville Stone Had No Time to Waste
At 4 o'clock in the morning, when it was dark and cold, Melville Stone got up and dressed quickly. He hurried along several blocks to the newspaper office, where he got his newspapers, for he carried a route every morning.

He delivered all his papers on foot. It was 8 o'clock when he got home. Then he had his breakfast, and off he went to school.

As soon as school was over, he went straight to an office, where he had a regular job sweeping out and cleaning. He did his work neatly and thoroughly. By the time he had finished and reached home, he was just in time for supper.

After supper, he gathered up some books and was off to a night school, where he was taking an extra course in history. The school didn't last long, so he still had time, after he reached home, to get his lessons for the next day before he went to bed. And Melville was only twelve!

Melville E. Stone, born in Illinois, August 22, 1848, became a newspaperman. He founded The Chicago Daily News.

CITY PROGRAMME IS BROADCAST

Mayor Ansonbom Speaks Over KOMO; Geo. I. Warren Gives Facts

Last evening the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau broadcasted a programme over radio station KOMO Seattle. George I. Warren, master of ceremonies, opened the programme by giving a few statistics on the climate of Victoria, and a few of its attractions from a health and recreational standpoint.

Charles J. Gault, the bureau's special representative at Blaine, Wash., sang songs and accompanied himself on the "uke." Mayor Ansonbom gave a ten-minute talk on Victoria. He pointed out the easy and comfortable way the tourists could reach the city and the many things they could do and see after their arrival. He told of the many outdoor activities which were going on all the time, and invited everyone who could hear his voice to visit the city at their earliest convenience, to stay a long time and return again.

Soprano solos were given by Mrs. Isabelle Joffe, formerly of this city, but now of Queen Charlotte City. The KOMO orchestra rendered a number of selections. During the programme about a dozen phone calls were received at the station complimenting both the party that put on the programme and the station for allowing it to be broadcast. A few of these calls were from former citizens of Victoria now living in Seattle or its environs.

HORSE SHOW DRAWS CROWD AT WILLOWS

Distinguished Crowd Watches Many Interesting Events

Keen interest was shown in the second horse show which was held at the Willows horse show building yesterday evening and which proved one of the most attractive features of the Provincial Exhibition.

Prominent among those present were Lieut.-Governor R. R. Bruce and his party composed of Miss Mackenzie, Miss K. Knight of Jasper, Mrs. J. R. Scooby, Rev. McLaughlin, Capt. M. McLaughlin. The first class on the programme was one for five gaited saddle horses which was won by Mrs. D. B. Carley, astride Belton, a bay horse. Muriel Price on Pedro was second and T. Short on Ten Spot was third. The following event was for the saddle horses over 15 1/2 and was easily won by Mrs. Garret on Amber Crown. This is a thoroughbred horse and was racing at Colwood two weeks ago. It is owned by Mrs. Dugald Gillespie.

The following class was for light-weight hunters. The outcome was never in doubt. Surprise, a born jumper, with Major K. B. Spurgin won winning easily. The performance was very notable and Surprise seemed to fly rather than jump over the barriers. Felty Pat was second with Nicholas Van der Vliet riding and Norman Drysdale on Goldenlocks was third. In the event for women's heavyweight hunters, Mrs. Dugald Gillespie won with her first place went to Mrs. D. B. Carley. Mrs. Dugald Gillespie was second with the chocolate roan, Nevada. Mrs. Iria McNally was third on the grey mare, Peg O' My Heart.

In the class for ponies under 14 1/2 hands, a great deal of amusement was afforded the spectators by two events. After the entrance of all the legitimate competitors, Jockey LaRocque burst suddenly in the ring riding an old broken down cow pony. This event required much deliberation on the part of the judge, Dr. A. McKay, of Calgary. It was finally won by Miss Virginia Graham on Glen Alice with Miss Joan Humphries on Blaise, a close second. The third place was awarded to Miss Bertie-Lou Parton astride Brownie.

In the class for women's lightweight hunters, Mrs. D. B. Carley was awarded the first place with her horse, Beggar Boy. The second position was given to Miss Muriel Price of Duncan, with her chestnut Jerry. Third place was awarded to Mrs. Iria McNally on Peg O' My Heart.

The class for saddle horses under 15 1/2 hands was also won by Mrs. Carley, this time riding Beggar Boy. The second and third went to Miss Muriel Price on Jerry and Miss J. McDonald, of Sydney, on Jinka, respectively.

Then, the performance jump, was one of the outstanding events of the programme. This event consisted of four plain and one slanting three rail jump. Richard Garrett, a fourteen year old boy, triumphed over his elders when he annexed the first place. Over the jumps he looked as if he were a part of his horse, Rosie. Mrs. Dugald Gillespie riding side saddle on Nevada was awarded the second place while

WOMAN IS 37, BOY 19; JUDGE HALTS RULING ON ROMANCE

Should a woman be permitted to marry a boy half her age?

Mr. Justice Gregory of the Supreme Court to-day faced the question, and postponed giving a definite answer. The question has been before the court here for the last couple of weeks in what is known as the Mill Bay romance case. The couple, accompanied by the guardian of the boy, a middle-aged woman, were brought from up-Island into court here to-day by A. D. Crease, who is counsel for them in seeking to get legal sanction to the marriage. The case came before the court as a result of Sheriff Goggin refusing a marriage license to the couple when he found that the boy was under age.

Under questioning to-day, the woman said her age was thirty-seven, and that she loved the boy and desired that he marry her. He admitted that he was only nineteen and loved her. He explained that his father lives in Alberta and that he was brought here by a guardian at whose home the romance developed. He said he planned to become an artist.

David Tait appeared for the boy's father, who, he said, objected to his son being married and refused to give him the necessary consent. Tait was very busy in the case of a youth being under age.

The boy's guardian explained that he had artistic temperament and because of this he thought it advantageous for him to have someone such as the prospective wife to look after him.

As it was reported the boy's father would come to Victoria, the judge postponed a decision.

DEATH DUTIES ARE DISCUSSED BY H. D. TWIGG

Conservative Member Urges Abolition of Succession Tax on Land in B.C.

"The Succession Duty Act is a piece of patch-work. It is fair that the value of a piece of land should be lessened just because someone happens to die? I am of the opinion that the succession duties on land should be abolished, and think that if the government of this Province was properly approached an amendment of the act could, perhaps, be soon effected." In these words H. D. Twigg, M.P.P., expressed his views on succession duties in British Columbia, at a luncheon meeting of the Victoria Real Estate Board to-day.

He sketched the origin and early history of succession and probate duties throughout the world and told his hearers that they were lighter in this Province than anywhere else in Canada. "Nowhere on the continent did the exemption extend to estates of $20,000, and nowhere was the bequest limit twelve months as it was in British Columbia. However, although much has been done in the past, there was still room for improvement, he said.

J. C. Bridgman read some interesting headlines from the local press on acts of general interest, and Major M. Kirkpatrick Crockett, who presided, told the members that the recent convention at Longview, Wash., would be fully treated at a later meeting.

FLIERS RACING FROM SEATTLE TO CHICAGO

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 22.—Bert Ruff, Seattle, took off here at 9:01 a.m. to-day on the latest lap of the Seattle-Chicago air derby, the four other aviators starting at one minute intervals.

Ruff left first on instructions from officials of the derby that the last man alighting here yesterday should be the first to leave to-day. He was followed in order by Floyd Keadle, Portland; Frank Kanner, Wenatchee; John Blinn, Seattle, and Nick Mamer, Spokane.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—For the aerial acrobatics and speed contests that will feature the National Air Races opening at the Curtiss-Reynolds Airport tomorrow five European nations have sent noted military fliers. The list includes Lieut. Richard A. Atcherley and Rup Preston of Great Britain; Lieut. Marcel Dorest of France; Capt. Friedrich Loewe of Germany and Marshal Pietro Colombo of Italy. All reached Chicago yesterday.

The identity of Poland's representative remains a mystery. The Polish war ministry has informed race officials only that one of its most distinguished air men will take part. From the decks of the United States Navy airplane carrier Lexington at San Francisco came nineteen planes of the "High Hat" or red ripper squadron. Eighteen fliers from the marine base at Quonset dropped in. Selfridge Field, Michigan, and Langley Field, have groomed crack squadrons to represent the army in the ten days speed contests and stunts.

Third went to W. A. Anadale, of Cowichan, on Big Boy. The last event on the programme was the four horse teams in jumping. There was no competition in this class so it was purely an exhibition. The team consisted of Mrs. D. E. Gillespie, Miss E. Garrett, Major Spurgin and Nicholas Van der Vliet. The jump consisted of jumping four horses over a brush barrier. The team was trained by D. E. Carley and will compete in Vancouver, Seattle and Portland. Special credit is due to Mrs. Gillespie for securing the use of the building and staging the show.

QUEZON HERE TO RECOVER FROM ILLNESS

President of Philippine Senate, Sick, Will Recuperate in States

Will Never Lose Faith in Establishing Complete Autonomy For His Country

Hon. Manuel L. Quezon, president of the Philippine Senate, has been a sick man, but he has lost nothing of his characteristic determination in his efforts to secure absolute independence for the Philippines.

On numerous occasions, previously, he has rushed across the Pacific with Washington, D.C., as his immediate objective, intent upon placing before the powers at the U.S. capital the claims of his country for complete autonomy.

This time his eye has lost some of its fire, but the strong will and the determination to achieve his ambition is still there, although subdued.

The temperamental Filipino was in bed in his suite when the liner Empress of Japan docked here on the completion of her maiden voyage to-day.

As he was leaving the ship here to proceed to Seattle on his way to the south, he had to dress hurriedly and was not in the mood to talk freely upon his best subject.

IN NEED OF REST
"I have been ill and I am going south to recuperate," said Mr. Quezon, when asked if he intended to proceed direct to Washington, D.C.

He added that he intended to go into a health sanatorium in the United States, but was not yet certain whether he would go to Denver, Colo., or to Monrovia, Southern California. In any event he and his family will first go to San Francisco and will there decide definitely on their plans.

WILL NEVER LOSE FAITH
"I have never lost my faith in the ultimate independence of the Philippine Islands," he said when pressed for a statement on the independence issue. "The whole question is now before Congress and we are very anxious."

"I have been in bed most of the voyage, but I am appreciative of the beauty of your wonderful ship and your unbounded hospitality," said Mr. Quezon, in addressing Capt. Samuel Robinson, the commander of the Empress of Japan, as he was leaving his quarters to go ashore.

He felt that he and the members of his family could not thank the commander enough for the courtesies that had been extended to them on the trip from the Orient.

Mrs. Quezon shook Captain Robinson by the hand and graciously accepted her thanks to those of her distinguished husband.

ATTENDED BY DOCTOR
Mr. Quezon is attended by his personal physician, Dr. T. Arviss, while other members of the party are Dr. and Mrs. A. Vazquez, Dr. A. D. Aguirre, assistant director of the Philippine Health Service, and F. Reyes, private secretary to Mr. Quezon.

Although Mr. Quezon has no intention of proceeding immediately to Washington, D.C., he will probably do so before he returns to Manila, and will confer with P. Guevarra and C. Ocasio, resident commissioners and elected members in the House of Representatives at the U.S. Federal capital.

HUNTER BALLOT FINDING FAVOR

B.C. Municipalities Inquire About Voting System Originated Here

Extension of the use of the Hunter system of voting, originated by Frank M. Hunter, Victoria city clerk, is indicated in communications received by Mr. Hunter lately.

The Hunter ballot was used fully for the first time in Canada at the Victoria municipal elections last fall. Since that time several other municipalities have manifested interest in the new system.

Recently Mr. Hunter has been asked by municipal officials at Prince George and Burnaby to forward sample copies of the ballot to them, pending decision whether they would be used in those places.

Mayor W. H. Malkin, of Vancouver, expressed himself favorably interested in the system.

Yesterday afternoon, Mayor J. H. Raftery, of Carletonville, Illinois, visited the City Hall to pay his respects to Mayor Ansonbom, and met Mr. Hunter, whose association with the ballot he knew through a review of the system he had read in a Chicago daily newspaper. Mayor Raftery thought the system would be a big improvement over that now used in municipal and state elections in the United States.

Served as Master of Old Montague and Was Officer on Old "Empresses"

For over forty years Capt. Samuel Robinson has sailed the seven seas. He has worked his way from the mist of an old sailing schooner to the proud position of master of the Pacific Ocean's fastest passenger liner. To-day Capt. Robinson paces the bridge of the magnificent new liner Empress of Japan and is in command when she arrived here this morning from the Orient. He has piloted this great 26,000-ton liner almost all the way around the world. He took charge of her at Southampton and brought her through the Mediterranean, down the Red Sea, around India, and to Hongkong where the present transpacific voyage was commenced.

Among the first aboard the new liner were Mayor Anson, members of the City Council, Captain E. Alkman, general superintendent of the Empress fleet of Vancouver, and L. D. Chetham, local agent. They all proceeded to Captain Robinson's cabin and there welcomed the skipper and his new command to the Capital City.

It is a very great pleasure for myself and the members of the council to greet you this morning on your arrival in Canadian waters with your splendid new ship, the Empress of Japan," said Mayor Anson.

"May I say that we are doubly glad to greet you personally because of your splendid service to humanity during the great Japanese earthquake. When the whole world was appalled at the great disaster, your personality and courage stood out as the one world figure in the disaster."

"What a contrast we find between your present ship and its predecessor. I remember well only a few years ago when your previous boat lay for an indefinite period in the harbor of Vancouver and to-day we witness the great ship you have brought to us now."

"Less than a quarter of a century ago Capt. Robinson is a familiar figure to Victoria. He has been calling here from the time he was a young officer aboard the old Canadian Pacific ships plying to and from the Orient. Then he was "Sammy" Robinson. To-day he is Capt. Robinson, C.B.E., R.N.R., officially but to his many friends on the waterfront he is still "Sammy."

NEW VESSEL FOR FUNDY

Princess Helene Expected To-day From England For Service in East

St. John, N.B., Aug. 22.—The City of St. John was awaiting the arrival of the new Canadian Pacific steamer Princess Helene for the St. John-Digby route this morning. The latest advice received from the steamer, commanded by Captain Lancaster, states that she was reported off Cape Race at 2:30 p.m. yesterday and at the rate of speed now maintained she should moor at Reed's Point wharf about 3 o'clock this afternoon.

A large number of officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway are in the city to witness the maiden voyage of the steamer, including E. W. Beatty, E.C. president of the company, and Grant Hall, vice-president, as well as a host of others. Mr. Beatty will arrive here at noon Monday and will be the guest of honor at the banquet given by the St. John Board of Trade the same evening.

Public inspection of the new steamer will take place on Sunday, September 1, according to a statement issued by J. N. Woodman, district general superintendent of the line. A large number of visitors from Nova Scotia will board the steamer at Digby on the return trip from the maiden voyage. Work is progressing rapidly on the construction of the new pier at Digby for accommodation of the new steamer, and piers have been driven over twice the width of the old pier. Acceleration of service across the Bay of Fundy will be realized before completion of the pier, however, as the new steamer will cut the running time between the two points by at least twenty minutes, and loading and discharging of automobiles and freight will be accomplished in a fraction of the time formerly occupied.

Among the passengers aboard, in addition to the Philippine Senate party, which, disembarked here, were the Archbishop of Manila, Rev. A. M. J. O'Leary, proceeding to Rome where he will have an audience with the Pope. Dr. A. Vasquez of Manila, proceeding to the United States for a postgraduate study in medicine, with his wife, W. J. Doherty of the Associated Oil Company, returning to the United States after a business trip to the Orient; Allan Cameron, Orient manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway; L. J. Davies, a prominent resident of Sydney, Australia, on his way to England with his wife and son; J. A. Shaw, construction manager of the Standard Oil Company, returning to this continent; T. H. Tyson of the Standard Oil Company, and Mrs. Howard Stone, wife of the general passenger agent of the Canadian Pacific in the Orient.

The Mayor presented Capt. Robinson, on behalf of the city, with a handsome silver cigarette case, suitably engraved. Capt. Robinson briefly replied to the welcome and thanked the Mayor and aldermen for the interest they had taken in him and his new ship. The visitors were then shown over the new ship from stem to stern.

THE PASSENGERS who made the maiden voyage across the Pacific on the Empress of Japan reported a delightful trip. The ship was everything that had been said about her, the passengers reported, and they were sorry to leave.

Visitors were greatly impressed with the magnificence of the new ship as they wandered over her this morning. From her beautiful swimming pool on the lower deck to her palm court and lounge on the upper deck, the Empress of Japan is a wonder ship and the very finest that nearly 80,000,000 would build at the great shipbuilding plant of the Fairfield Company on the Clyde in Scotland. She brought 530 passengers in all classes. Of these 114 were in the first class, fifty-nine in the second, thirty-four in the third and 22 in the stateroom. A large number from all classes left the ship here and proceeded to Seattle aboard the regular afternoon steamer, on route to their various destinations in the United States.

GREAT NEW PACIFIC LINER COMPLETES FAST MAIDEN VOYAGE

Empress of Japan Arrives On First Trip From Orient

Magnificent New Liner of 26,000 Tons Creates New Record for Fast and Luxurious Travel Across the Pacific; Public Rooms Eclipse Anything on the Pacific and Deck Space and Attractions Excel Those of Any Ship of Her Size.

With the arrival of the new Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Japan, the most luxurious passenger steamer and one of the largest on the western ocean, here from the Orient on her maiden voyage, she set a new record for the 4,000-mile jaunt across the Pacific from Yokohama to this port. By her trip, which was completed here this morning, the Empress of Japan takes the blue ribbon for speed from the liner Empress of Canada which created a record of eight days, ten hours and fifty-three minutes when she arrived here on her maiden voyage from the Orient seven years ago. Now the Canada must take second place, giving the speed laurels to the latest acquisition to the Empress fleet on the Pacific.

Almost everyone in Victoria is interested to-day in the arrival here of the new Empress of Japan. Victorians always take an interest in a new ship and make a point of studying that new ship until they feel a personal interest in it. And the new Empress measures 666 feet. The old Empress was 445 feet. The new Empress is 26,000 gross registered tons, while the old ship boasted only 8,940 tons, an immense ship for her day on the Pacific. The population of a small town could have adequate accommodation aboard the new Empress of Japan. Passengers to the number of 1,112 find ample room and the crew numbers close to 600, a total of nearly 1,800 souls. Nearly $10,000,000 was expended to make her the finest ship on the Pacific and the best artists and highest class furnishings of houses of London and Paris were engaged to decorate and furnish her spacious and courtly staterooms and public apartments.

Entering the giant liner through the main entrance the first impression is that of entering the reception room public rooms of the Empress of Japan as proof that paneled walls and ceilings, harmonious blendings of draperies and upholstery, the gleaming richness of hardwood floors and high wide windows as spacious as those of any English manor house can make the inside of a ship as appealing as any beautiful home ashore.

A LUXURY LINER

Ornamental designs and costly furnishings of the Empress of Japan place the ship immediately in the front rank of luxury liners. Decorators, realizing many of her days will be spent in warm climates, have favored cool, fresh colors, carefully avoiding heavy goods and colors in the treating of upholstery and drapes, omitting anything suggestive of stuffiness. The result is an instant impression of bright, clean spaciousness.

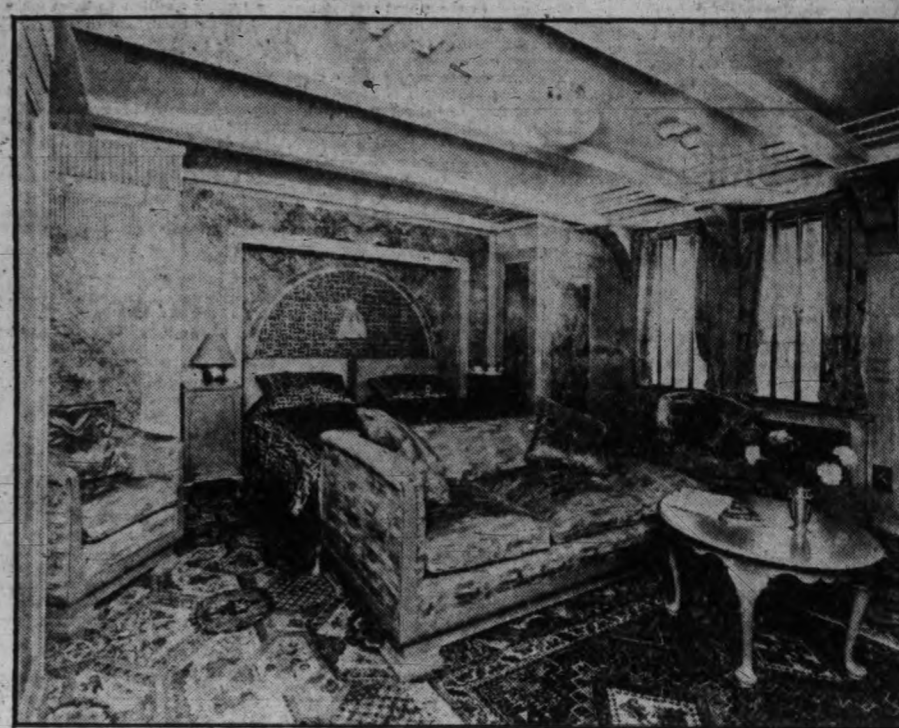

Lofty walls in a bewildering succession of brilliant public rooms, social centres during the forty-three days of voyaging, show the influence of careful design. Mainly, they are of untouched or merely waxed wood, the natural beauty of the grain providing the necessary decorative note.

This "nature" treatment finds a fine example in the lofty glass-domed lounge. Here high walls are done in pale mountaineer and walnut in natural finish. Deep chairs and divans, attractively upholstered in bright harmonious colors are set about this large attractive room in profusion. Soft oriental rugs partly cover a hardwood

Georgian manner and painted a restful light coral color, the card room is tasteful, beautiful and cozy, while the writing room, also Georgian paneled, is a light cream color. Subdued lighting reflected from the ceiling falls on elegant mahogany furniture and a marble chimneypiece.

The designers who have so successfully ministered to all the needs and comforts of grown-ups have not overlooked the children. The children's room, also situated on the promenade deck, appears in the guise of a red-tiled cottage set in a painted flower garden. Childish hands clap with glee at the sight of it, and wonderful toys and sleeping cots for dolls are hidden in a bower at the end of the "garden." Children, it appears, will be no particular trouble to parents wise enough to place them in this miniature fairyland as soon as the ship clears for sea.

Stomachs that rebel against the overfeeding which sea voyaging often induces, muscles cramped by long hours over decks and lunge fouled by city air will have their tinnings in the airy, spacious gymnasium, fully equipped with all those electrical devices that literally roll the fat from corpulent frames, the high horse, the wrestling mats, the punching bags, the formidable rows of Indian clubs, the dumbbells that seem to get heavier and heavier with each upward heave of wearying arms. And after all this, five decks below and reached directly by elevator from the gymnasium, a swimming tank, a superb green and veranda and bathroom; twelve two-bedded special staterooms with bath, and twenty-eight one-bedded, and 100 two-bedded ordinary first class staterooms. Rooms of the special staterooms are decorated alternately in walnut, with satinwood enrichments, Quebec birch and black bean.

The suites are the last word in marine luxury. Bedrooms are paneled in delicate olive wood; furniture is covered with creamy purple damask, and the twin beds of unusual design are recessed. Decorative landscapes in tones of peary grey distinguish the comfortable sitting-rooms, and the veranda with tiled floor, flower boxes

These 26,000 tons of luxury are propelled by twin screws, each actuated by a single set of single reduction geared turbines. These are Parsons latest type, consisting of h.p. i.p. and l.p. units in a series designed to employ steam at a working pressure of 375 pounds superheated to a temperature of 700 degrees F. floor of unusual design. At one end of the room beneath an exquisite mantel on which a golden clock is supported by bronze figures is a wide fireplace denoting a touch of cozy warmth and companionship. Daylight streams through a lofty glass dome in the centre of the room. Wide windows give a sweeping seascape, and at night myriad indirect lighting fixtures, some of them in the dome and ceiling and other candelabra set in the walls, diffuse a soft unobtrusive glow.

THE PALM COURT

"At the foremost end of the promenade deck is the palm court, which is the ship's ballroom. Natural oak panels, enriched with gilding, adorn the walls. Wide alcoves provide secluded nooks where tiny tables surrounded by divans and chairs offer a seductive invitation to afternoon tea. Light from high windows partly screened by palms and flowers, illuminates this beautiful room by day, while indirect lighting at night is from cunningly placed wall and ceiling fixtures. At one end is the musicians' stage, which also offers splendid facilities for the concert and entertainments forming such an important phase of social life on ship-board.

A note of rich warm comfort is struck in the genial smoking-room where an inlaid teak floor and walnut skirting contrast with a specially selected light-grained mahogany studded with bronze nails in an unusual trellis effect. A monumental chimney-piece of carved Roman stone crowned with a cut-glass overmantel provides a further suggestion of sweeping beauty and comfort.

The long gallery communicating with the smoking-room and forward to the palm court on the port side of the promenade deck is simply executed in ash and walnut. Glass doors lead amid-ship into the main entrance hall. The ship's shop, beloved of souvenir hunters, and attractively designed with ornate carvings, occupies a central position facing the sweeping staircase paneled in ash and walnut, and flanked by massive carved balustrades. Telephone boxes are installed, revolving doors, like those ashore, lead on to the open deck and smart, speedy elevators speed up and down with their human freight.

BEAUTIFUL ROOMS

But the ship is not done with its surprises. Near at hand are two rooms set like astonishing jewels in unvarnished and peerless settings, the card room and the writing room. Paneled in the black marble creation with refinements that include underwater lighting fixtures.

A POOL AT SEA

A quick plunge into the cool waters, then a chair beside the pool with perhaps a drink or a sandwich, or both, from the refreshment booth nearby, a rubdown by experienced masseurs, with electrical trimmings in a room bristling with ultra-violet rays and massage machines, then back into clothes again, every nerve in the body tingling and alive.

Seven passenger decks on the Empress of Japan reveal the spaciousness of a ship designed for pleasure and outdoor recreations under sunny Orient skies. Generous promenade space is provided for all classes, including the long covered promenade deck, the boat deck and the large sports deck, awning-covered in hot weather and the haunt of shuffle-board and deck tennis enthusiasts.

The same grace and beauty which characterizes decorative treatment of the ship's public rooms has been carried out through the long rows of staterooms in first and second class accommodation. Generally speaking and with few exceptions all of them are outside rooms with ship's side-lights. They have attractive bedsteads, twin beds and singles, instead of the traditional sea bunks one above the other.

Intercommunicating doors are fitted between practically all of the first class rooms following a design the advantages of which are obvious. Families, desiring more than one room, can have a series of two or three bedrooms instantly transformed into a luxurious suite.

Electric lighting in these rooms of comfort is on a lavish scale. Steam heat and ball louvre ventilation are of the latest type, the ventilation system being supplemented by electric fans and the heating system by wall plugs supplying current for electric heaters. These wall plugs, however, have a deeper interest; they provide current for curling irons and other useful articles of beautification. Wardrobes with pier-glass mirrors, dressing tables with triple-folding mirrors and pedestal wash basins with running hot and cold fresh water, intercommunicating telephones between the de luxe suites are some of the modern improvements to be found on the Empress of Japan.

For de luxe accommodation, there are two de luxe suites offering the combination of bedroom, sitting-room,

THE SHOPS

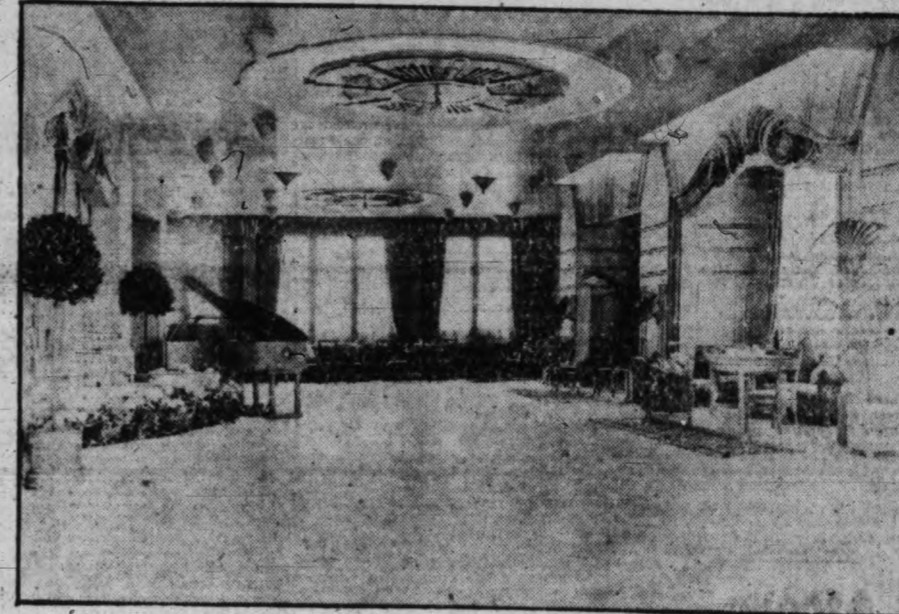

The street of shops aboard the Empress of Japan offers the same smartness as Fifth Avenue, Bond Street or the Rue de la Paix. The souvenir stand packed with the strange handicraft of nations older than the Pharaohs, the up-to-date barber shop, the ladies' hairdressing salon where skilled attendants, assisted by the best and latest in electrical equipment administer to beauty's needs; the two mannequin and chirpody salons, the photographer's, the surgery and dispensary provide the wants of shipboard life. In the central hall, like the financial district of a miniature floating city, cluster the company's offices, the ticket agent's stand, the information bureau, the purser's office where world-wide travelers' cheques can be sure of 200 pounds under forced draught, all boilers to burn oil fuel only.

This massive power plant will drive the Pacific's biggest ship through the sea at twenty-one knots (the ship did better than twenty-three knots in her trials). But a ship, no matter what its power, how big its decks, how beautiful its rooms, falls short of perfection without the joys that only a high class chef can bring. Jealous of an enviable reputation as caterers, the Canadian Pacific has planned thoughtfully to make its new flagship the delight of epicures. Catering, under the supervision of catering superintendent W. J. Myllett, will be made easier aboard the Empress of Japan by reason of the improvements in its kitchens. All cooking in the huge kitchen is electrically done. Improvements have been introduced in the storage of food and its handling.

well with a gallery running to port and starboard. Prominent is the musician's balcony in elaborate gilded bronze, facing a large engraved mirror. Dark carved mahogany furniture gives this huge room a note of warmth and richness. Sidelights are screened by sliding windows, and provided with carved teak shutters.

Gazing at the long lines of this new white Empress it is hard to imagine that her predecessors, the old Empresses of Japan, India and China once were called "ahead of their time," and laughed at by "wise" men who predicted they would be a financial loss. Here is another ship a little "ahead of her time" which is 666 feet long, where the old ships were 445 feet; 26,000 tons compared with 8,940 tons; eighty-three feet wide compared with fifty-one; twenty-one knots against seventeen knots, and accommodating 1,112 passengers as compared with the old vessels and their 800 passengers.

is no doubt being studied widely, for she is named after a ship that was famous in her day and which was well-known to all Victorians as the most magnificent ship of her time, a ship that called at Victoria and which had been visited by most people living in this city in those days. That ship was the old Empress of Japan, nothing

Japan is famous now. The old ship carried hundreds of distinguished passengers across the Pacific during the thirty years she was in service just as the new ship will have prominent lists while she is flying the Canadian Pacific houseflag on the Pacific.

While Kipling argues that a ship can never be anything but a ship despite the efforts of artists and interior decorators, Brangwyn may well point to the

TODAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)

Winnipeg, Aug. 22.—Wheat: The market to-day was heavy throughout the session, during the first part of the day prices declined about 1-4 cents, but later on the loss was regained with early sellers covering up.

Liverpool was firm early, being 1-4 higher to 1-2 lower than the local market, but the cables were not followed by any business, as export sales were practically none.

Overnight was practically none, worked by the pool with prices not given, but reported by seaboard to be under the market.

Generally speaking the market was dull and featureless with the trade passing largely local, although Chicago moved moderately on the break.

The cash market was dull and uninteresting, just a few odd lots changing at unchanged spreads.

No new developments as regards the pool but it is now definitely known that the bank is absolutely refused to advance more than six cents per bushel for wheat unless they are guaranteed by some government source against loss.

There are also reports that the Saskatchewan pool will break away from the two other pools and endeavor to market their own grain to the best advantage.

The wheat situation appears to be unsettled, and the foreign market is delaying his buying in the meantime as he is not altogether dependent on Canada for his requirements.

Spring conditions in Argentina and Australia are reported to be very favorable. Winnipeg futures closed 5-8 to 1 cent lower.

Coarse grains: These markets were all firm and higher largely following the American market.

High grade oats but very little was transacted otherwise the demand is flat.

Oats closed 1-2 to 1-4 higher, 1-4 to 1-2 up, 7-8 to 1-2 up.

Flax: Dull and featureless, no demand.

Closing prices 1-2 to 1-4 lower. Liverpool is due one quarter higher 3-8 lower on Winnipeg.

We Are Wise to Accord Proper Deference to Our Neighbors' Opinions, but We Are Foolish to Be Slaves to Them; for No Matter What We Do, We Will Not Be Able to Please Everybody

THERE is no more difficult question to decide than how far we should be ruled by our neighbors and where we should draw the line between snapping our fingers in Mrs. Grundy's face and groveling in the dust before her.

A millionaire's insolent dictum, "The public be damned," very nearly wrecked a railroad, and certainly it will wreck any man or woman to flout the opinion of the community in which he or she lives. For our reputations are in the mouths of our acquaintances, and we stand or fall by what they say about us.

Is isn't enough for us to be good; we must look good to those about us and act in accordance with their conventions. There is an unwritten law that we may not do certain things without subjecting ourselves to gossip, and we defy this at our peril.

The married woman who goes joy-riding with slick-haired youths may be, in reality, a devoted wife and mother and faithful to her husband; the young girl who indulges in petting parties in automobiles parked in front of her house at 3 o'clock in the morning may be merely indiscreet. The married man who takes his stenographer out to lunch may be actuated by only the most altruistic motives, but their clear consciences avail them nothing.

Their neighbors cannot see into their souls. They can only judge by the outside and make such deductions as appearances seem to warrant. Therefore, we are foolish if we think we can defy our neighbors, and do as we please, and live our own lives regardless of them.

Every now and then you find some intrepid individual who tries this experiment: A young girl who thinks she has a right to comfort and console some married man and receive his attentions. A couple who decide to live together without benefit of clergy. A man who scorns to follow the dictates of fashion, and who comes to your parties unshaven and unshorn and wearing a flannel shirt and baggy trousers. But, sooner or later, the juggernaut of public opinion rolls over all of these people and leaves them crushed and maimed. They find themselves ostracized, balked of their ambitions, dropped out of everything and left to go their self-elected way alone.

Now this fear of what "they will say" is the beginning of righteousness. It is the hangman's noose that keeps many a weak, tempted brother and sister in the straight and narrow path. And it is a good and wholesome thing for us to entertain a proper respect for our neighbors' tongues and to so conduct ourselves that we are not afraid of being the subject of conversation when two or three of them are gathered together.

But while we are wise to accord proper deference to our neighbors' opinions, we are foolish to be slaves to them, and to be so afraid of what they will say about us that we sacrifice all of our independence to them. For we may be sure that, no matter what we do, we will be discussed and criticized, and that we will not be able to please everybody.

The Joneses will think we stay at home too much; the Robinsons that we gad too much. The Smiths will opine that we are extravagant; the Thompsons that we are tightwads. The Johnsons will hold that we spoil our children; the Gabriels that we are too hard upon them. If we have an automobile, the O'Reillys will wonder how we can afford it. If we haven't one, the O'Tooles will wonder why we don't get one. If our household is a devoted one, some of the neighbors will hold us up as an example of a happy marriage and others will suspect it of being a bluff.

And so it will go. Others will discuss us as we, in our turn, discuss them, and in the end we have to fall back upon the philosophy of the old Dutch merchant who, when acquiring a fortune and, knowing that his origin would be a matter of speculation among his friends, carved over the doorway of the fine new mansion that he built: "They say. They will say. Let them be saying."

Unfortunately, this fear of "what they say" makes such cowards of many people that they will ruin their lives rather than do something that they think the neighbors might criticize. It is at the bottom of what makes men slave along at what they call "white-collar jobs" when they might be making fortunes in some trade, it is what crowds the professions with the unfit who would make successes as carpenters, bricklayers, or plumbers.

For years the fear of what the neighbors would say kept women threadbare in genteel poverty and eating the bitter bread of dependence, who were just aching to get out and work and make money for themselves. This dread of what the neighbors will say is keeping thousands of women who have a genius for cookery that they would love to express, and who thrill at the sight of a pan and pot, out of the kitchens that they long to be in. They would a million times rather go out to domestic service than work in factories or clerk in stores, if they weren't terrorized by the thought of what their neighbors would say.

Worst of all, this fear of what "they say" makes men and women ruin themselves by extravagances. They feel that they have to keep up with the Joneses. They haven't the courage to live according to their means. They think they will be criticized if they don't give the sort of parties their friends give and wear the same sort of clothes and have as good a car. So they run into debt and come to disaster in the end.

And the queer part of it all is that when we are brave enough to be independent and choose the sort of work we are fitted for by nature, when we roll our own baby carriages and make our own frocks and ride in a fivver and live within our means, our neighbors all praise us for it and say kindly things instead of ridiculing us as they do when we pretend and pose.

The moral of all of which is that we should live so that we may not be afraid of what "they say" about us and, having done that, not care a hang what they do say.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

Many families like to eat dinner on the porch or in the garden during the hot summer days.

If these meals are not to entail an undue amount of work, careful planning is necessary. The first consideration is to reduce the number of dishes to a minimum. A one-dish combination of some sort with a salad and dessert simplifies serving as well as dish washing.

Casserole dishes combining meat and vegetable pies are excellent main dishes for dinners a la fresco. These dishes keep hot longer than steaks and chops and provide two or more food elements in one dish.

Very often the salad can be put on the table in an attractive salad bowl from which each person may serve himself. Compartment plates make an extra plate for salad quite unnecessary. These plates are not expensive and are a worth-while investment for the woman who does her own cooking and dish washing.

Paper plates and cups are in perfect keeping with out-door meals and do away with dish washing. There is always a picnic flavor to fresh air meals that make them well relished whether served on China or paper.

TO SIMPLIFY SERVING Bread and butter sandwiches simplify serving, since one plate takes care of both bread and butter.

If the main course is a hearty salad, a light dessert of fruit or cornstarch pudding with fruit is suitable. The main hot dish made with spaghetti or some starchy food requires a pudding made with fruit, egg, and whatever menu is reduced to two or three dishes, much thought must be spent on their choice if a balanced meal is provided.

The following recipe for veal balls with macaroni and tomatoes en casserole is an excellent example of a one-piece dish.

Veal Balls With Macaroni
One pound finely chopped veal, 1 teaspoonful salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1 cup broken macaroni, 4 medium sized tomatoes, 1 small onion, 2 tablespoons butter.
Season meat with salt and pepper and shape in small balls. Cook macaroni in boiling, salted water for fifteen minutes. Drain and blanch. Peel potatoes and mince onion. Put a layer of macaroni, into buttered casserole, add a layer of tomatoes cut in slices and sprinkle with minced onion. Dot with butter and season lightly with salt and sugar. Add veal balls and cover with a second layer of tomatoes and dot with butter. Cover casserole and bake one hour in a moderately hot oven. Serve from casserole.

Daily Menu
Luncheon—Stuffed baked cucumbers, rye bread, currant jelly, cream puffs, lemonade.
Dinner—Veal balls with macaroni, apple-celery and raisin salad, whole wheat bread and butter sandwiches, cookies, iced tea, milk.

The South American llama, when angry, spits upon the person annoying him and, like our domestic animals, can deliver a mean kick besides.

WESTERN SETTINGS FOR "ARIZONA KID" NOW SHOWING HERE

Something new in Western plays—a talkie in which every inch of film was actually made "on location" at the exact scenes of the story along the Rio Virgin in southwestern Utah—opened to an enthusiastic audience yesterday at the Dominion Theatre.

"The Arizona Kid" is the picture in question and it is a signal triumph for everyone concerned including the cast, the director and the author. Warner Baxter, who created history with his role of "The Cisco Kid" in "In Old Arizona," again plays the dashing, debonair bandit, but in a story of wider sweep and against more spectacular backgrounds than the earlier film afforded and the captivating Mona Maria, the heroine of "Romance of Rio Grande" with this same leading man and director, has a role worthy of her unusual talents in the current production.

years for a career behind the footlights. As a master of truth, young MacKenna abandoned a banking career that any young man of yesterday and to-day might well envy. He was private secretary for J. MAKEUP BANNED IN FILMING AIR STORY PLAYING AT CAPITOL

Realism was being furthered in the filming of "The Fighting Legion," the First National-Vitaphone feature starring Richard Barthelmess, now playing at the Capitol Theatre, by a blanket rule that no makeup be used by the players.

Barthelmess himself was the protagonist of this dictum believing that soldiers, officers and war flyers looked more like the real thing minus greasepaint and thus added to the authenticity of the scene. It is a Barthelmess policy to avoid make-up in any picture where it is feasible and where it would enhance his characterization. He has worked without make-up in many productions including "Scarlet Sins," "The Patent Leather Kid," and others.

KEN MAYNARD IS WESTERN HERO IN COLUMBIA FILM

An actual episode in the history of the Texas Rangers forms the basis of the story of "The Fighting Legion," Universal-Ken Maynard western, which is showing at the Columbia Theatre to-day. Maynard, whose hobby is the history of the rangers, suggested the theme to his script. In the cast with him in "The Fighting Legion" are Dorothy Dwan, Harry Todd, Frank Rice, Stanley Blystone, Jack Fowler and Bob Walker.

"KING OF JAZZ" TO SHOW HERE AT THE CAPITOL

By far the most colossal musical spectacle ever thrown upon any screen is the "Melting Pot" number of Universal's extravaganza, "King of Jazz," starring Paul Whiteman and his orchestra and featuring the most brilliant cast ever assembled on stage or screen, which comes to the Capitol Theatre on Monday.

In the conception of the entire picture, all the musical numbers of which are photographed in Technicolor, the imagination of John Murray Anderson, the famous New York producer, ran riot in sheer beauty.

Of the eight separate and complete musical numbers which, together with clever black-outs, are built into this surpassing film, the "Melting Pot" stands out as the supreme spectacle of the ultimate symphony in lavish entertainment.

ENGLISH COMEDY TRIO STARRING AT THE COLISEUM

The famous London comedy team, Tom Walls, Ralph Lynn and Mary Brough who appear in the popular British farce "Rookery Nook" now at the Coliseum, have been playing together in a series of similar farces for seven years in the same theatre. It is the only combination in England definitely clinging to a set policy of playing really funny and witty farces. Most of the plays are written by Ben Travers and the co-operation in building up funny situations and lines have been the most successful in the history of the British stage.

Every play they build up runs at least a year and it is hoped "Rookery Nook" will be followed by others of the many excellent laughter vehicles they have played.

Machine Cuts Medallions At Willows Fair

A remarkable machine which carves medallions on ivory discs is one of the features of the Manufacturers' Building being shown and demonstrated every evening between 6 and 7:30 o'clock by A. C. Jackson of Victoria. Its designer and builder, The apparatus is driven by a small electric motor and its relief work with remarkable fidelity. Ivory portraits of Abraham Lincoln and other notables are shown, all having been produced on the machine.

Mr. Jackson points out that in the seventeenth century similar lathe were used by King Louis XVI of France and the Czar Peter the Great of Russia, both of whom made hobbies of medallion carving. The only surviving example of those seventeenth century medallion lathes is now in the South Kensington Museum, London, England, and the machine on view was built by Mr. Jackson after studying the museum example.

Mr. Jackson also shows a remarkable model in ivory of the battleship Foudroyant, Admiral Lord Nelson's flagship in 1799, this having been made by French prisoners of war.

PENALTIES FOR SPECULATORS
Lisbon, Aug. 22.—The government yesterday decreed severe measures against speculators in wheat and rejected a plea of the bakers' association to be permitted to increase the price of bread. Portugal has faced a wheat shortage for some time because heavy rains have destroyed the crops in some areas and hindered the harvest in others.
